The New York girl remounted and won the event after her fall at the Newport Horse Show.

Robbers in Tremont Row, Aided by Woman "Lookout," Flee Over Housetops

If the police of the City Hall avenue station had been alive early today they could have captured the safe-crackers who have been rifling Boston drug stores for the past month. Breaks have already netted several thousands of dollars.

Detectives have been hunting the safe-crackers night and day—supposedly.

This morning they were working men Desmond and Nealy of the City headquarters. A reporter discovered them in the Epstein Drug Company's store at No. 28 Tremont row. They had forced entrance of the Beacon Sign Company, also, at No. 24. A woman "lookout" stood in the vicinity.

The reporter notified City Hall avenue station. Two patrolmen

BRIDE WILL HONEYMOON ALL ALONE

South End Nurse to Make Trip Unaccompanied by Her Aged Husband

Mrs. Esther A. Harrington, fifty years old, a nurse, of No. 612 Tremont street, South End, who is to become the bride of Christopher C. Smith, a Civil War veteran, of No. 567 Tremont street, South End, on September 6, will make a two weeks' honeymoon trip to Maine unaccompanied. Mr. Smith will remain at home because of his advanced years.

Mrs. Harrington, a widow, became a nurse on the death of her husband ten years ago. While attending a patient in Boston, she met Mr. Smith, a widower and retired Middleboro farmer.

"It was a case of love at first sight," Mrs. Harrington told the Boston American. "And the fact that we are both beyond the usual marrying age has in no way affected our attraction for each other."

Soon after the couple met, about a year ago, Mr. Smith engaged a room in the South End to be nearer the woman he was courting, and returned to his Middleboro farm only over the week-ends. After the wedding they will make their home in Middleboro.

Mr. Smith served in the Union Army throughout the Civil War, enlisting when he was sixteen years old. He took part in the battle of Bull Run. He is a member of the Middleboro Post of the G. A. R.

BOOTLEGS IN 2 GUN BATTLES

Brookline Cop Attacked From Ambush; 2 Runners Held in East Boston Chase

Two gun battles between police and bootleggers occured in Boston today while rum runners landing alcohol on the banks of the Saugus river were captured without a fight when surprised by police with drawn pistols.

In Brookline Liquor Officer Harry H. McNeill of the Brookline police emptied his gun at two men who fired upon him from ambush on a farm opposite the Walnut Hill Cemetery, Allandale road. The officer was not hit nor the men, either, as far as could be ascertained. They escaped.

In the most crowded part of East Boston at daybreak Sergeant James E. Lewis with Patrolmen Dunning and Finn commandeered a motor truck to chase two trucks speeding away with 600 gallons of alcohol.

They fired four shots before heading off the truck in Maverick street and arresting the men.

2 CAPTURED IN CHASE.

They gave their names as Vincent de Mauro, twenty-four years old, of No. 200 Maverick street, East Boston and John Mercurio, nineteen, of No. 247 Webster avenue, Chelsea. They were charged with illegal transportation of intoxicants.

The roar of the speeding machines drew hundreds of tenants along Orleans, Cottage and Maverick streets from their homes.

FREE STATE SWEEP IN IRISH ELECTIONS

London, Aug. 29 (AP)—Returns from the Irish election indicate a sweeping victory for the Free State candidates. Nearly a score of government party nominees, including almost all the cabinet ministers, have won seats by large majorities, while up to this morning the election of only three Republicans was assured.

The government so far has eighteen successful candidates to about half that number for the other parties, and if the present rate is maintained it may have a clear majority in the Free State Parliament instead of the plurality which its supporters expected.

Some days must elapse before the complete results can be published, says the Irish Times.

The balloting in Cork was more favorable to the government than had been expected, acording to the Times.

This newspaper also explains the success of Countess Markievicz as due to the admiration in which the south Dublin working classes hold her.

PINCHOT PLANS 30-DAY TRUCE IN EFFORT TO AVERT STRIKE

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 29.—Gifford Pinchot, Governor of Pennsylvania, faces his supreme test today.

The Governor submits to the warring operators and miners this afternoon the plan by which he hopes to bring about a settlement.

It was believed the Governor would urge a thirty-day truce, during which the opposing factions could consider his plan without outside interruption.

WARD'S TRIAL NEXT WEEK UNLESS HIS PLEA SUCCEEDS

New oYrk, Aug. 29. (I.N.S.)—Preparations were under way at the office of the Atty-General here today for the trial of Walter S. Ward, son of the millionaire baker, at White Plains next week.

The trial is scheduled to open Tuesday, unles Ward's counsel is successful in obtaining a dismissal of the indictment charging Ward with the murder of Clarence S. Peters, Haverhil, Mass., sailor. The application is to be passed on tomorrow.

It was reported the attorney general's office had unearthed "sensational new evidence."

EMPTY BLAZING OIL TANK; AVERT SERIOUS EVERETT FIRE

Employes of the Beacon Oil Company's plant on the waterfront at Everet fought an oil fire in novel manner today. When a tank with a 100-barrel capacity suddenly ignited at the top, sending flames leaping fifty feet into the air, the oil workers turned on a pump at the bottom of the tank which emptied it of three fourth's of its contents before flames could descend.

When fire apparatus from Everett and Charlestown arrived they were not wanted as the oil burnt itself out.

Mayor Gainer says that there has been no improvement in the service since the recent strike of the operators.

The Council of Cranston and the Council of Bristol have filed formal complaints against the telephone company with the Public Utilities Commission.

BABY SOUGHT BY 400,000 GIRL SCOUTS

In Ten Cities They Are Trying to Solve Great McKenzie Kidnaping Mystery

New York, Aug. 29.—The mystery surrounding the kidnaping of Baby Lillian McKenzie was no nearer solution today than it was the day the child was stolen from in front of McCrory's store, Sixth avenue and Eighteenth street.

But instead of interest in the search dimming, now that eleven days have elapsed since the sickly infant was stolen, there is added activity.

The body of a three-months old female child found today in the Hudson River and at first believed to have been the McKenzie baby, was not Lillian, it later developed. The child had been in the water almost ten days.

Four hundred thousand Girl Scouts, 12,000 of them in New York City, enlisted in the hunt for the missing baby.

Back Bay Officer, Accused of Being Drunk, in Scanty Attire on Commonwealth Ave.

Mounted Police Officer Lester D. Hill, attached to the Back Bay station, was today suspended from the Police Department by Commissioner Wilson, following charges that the officer was drunk and scantily attired in Commonwealth avenue at 2:30 Saturday morning and that he staged a roughhouse street fight when three officers attempted to get him under cover.

Hill was badly beaten in the scuffle.

He was taken to the Back Bay station by Mounted Officer Dunsford and Patrolmen Sullivan and Peterson.

Jealousy over a woman is hinted at.

New York, Aug. 29.—Skylight robberies which netted the perpetrators $100,000 in cash, liquors and jewels were reported today by dwellers in upper West Side apartments upon returning home after a Summer out of town. All the robberies are believed to have been committed by one gang. Jacob Ruff, head of the building and loan company reported that the robbers had cracked open a new safe in his home and made off with $20,000 worth of diamonds, jewelry, furs and silverware. His cellar, he said, had been robbed of 240 quarts of whiskey and wine.

PINCHOT PLANS THIRTY-DAY TRUCE

the Governor's plan hangs the nation's prospects for hard coal this Winter. Approval means continuation of work in the anthracite fields.

FAVORS SLIGHT RAISE.

Republican means that 155,000 miners lay their picks down at midnight Friday. Just what the program is that will be offered up today no one with authority cared to speculate.

Governor Pinchot has laid his plan carefully and it is known the proposal will represent the composite views and counsel of every technical, legal and statistical mind Pennsylvania's executive has been able to gather around him.

Best available information indicated the Pinchot plan to be a program of arbitration such as will insure continuing of mining pending final settlement.

The Governor, it was believed, would suggest to the miners that they accept a small wage increase.

The figure of 7½ per cent. has been discussed by those known to be close to the Governor. The miners are now asking 20 per cent wage increase.

OPPOSES "CHECK-OFF."

On the other hand, it is quite generally known, the Governor will ask the miners to abandon their demand for the "check-off."

Should these two questions be settled by agreement the remaining points at issue, including the 8 hour day, could be settled without difficulty, both miners and operators have stated on past occasions.

The miners and operators are both in a position to take immediate action on anything Governor Pinchot may suggest.

The operators' committee, headed by Samuel B. Warriner, has the power to act for the mine owners.

Among the rumors circulated about the State House was that the Governor sought to solve the check-off problem through what he terms a "semi-check-off."

Under that plan, if it is submitted, union officials would be permitted to visit the paymaster's office at each mine, on payday, taking out of each miner's pay, immediately after it was delivered to the workers, the sum due the union for dues and assessments.

The Governor was reported, from unofficial sources, to favor the eight-hour day.

Cardinal Threatens to Excommunicate Bootleggers

Montreal, Aug. 29.—Catholic bootleggers and moonshiners in the Province of Quebec are threatened with excommunication by Cardinal Begin of Quebec.

Cardinal Begin. International News Reel Photo

Cardinal Begin is preparing a pastoral in which he warns Catholics engaged in the illicit liquor traffic that they face excommunication.

Numerous illicit stills are reported in the counties near the American border, and are said to have raised many farmers from the near-pauper status to that of the near-rich. Many of the population not actually distilling liquor are garnering substantial sums via the bootleg route.

ok streets to windows, only to duck hurriedly as they saw officers with drawn guns levelled at the speeding trucks ahead.

Arrested, the prisoners said they were the dupe of rum runners. Police found a loaded 43-calibre pistol in one car and a 38-calibre loaded gun in the other. The men were arraigned in East Boston court.

CODE TALK TO LAWYER.

Two men arrested in Saugus telephoned a lawyer from police headquarters and talked to him in code. Captain John T. Stuart of Saugus police, with Lieutenant Frank Joy, seized the men at the Saugus river bank as they were transferring 300 gallons of alcohol from a row boat to a motor truck. They had taken it from a motor boat at Crutchy Buoy. They gave their names at Andre Sen-takuales, of No. 358 Commercial street, Boston, and Moe Areustine, of No. 34 Suffolk street, Malden.

They were arraigned in Saugus Court charged with illegal transportation and possession of intoxicants.

400,000 GIRL SCOUTS SEEK LOST BABY

American, which has offered a reward of $5,000 for the restoration of Baby Lillian, Mrs. Frederick Edey, society woman and head of the National Field Committee of the Girl Scouts, offered the aid of the organization. She telegraphed the district councils in ten large cities, urging that the Girl Scouts join in the search.

The telegrams were sent to Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Buffalo and Atlanta, and read:

"The National Field Committee hopes your local council will cooperate in nation-wide search for Lillian McKenzie by asking your Girl Scouts to keep watch on their neighborhoods for any baby that might be the missing child, and notify local council so that the police may be informed."

Responding to the New York American's suggestion, the officials of the Girl Scouts in the eNw York district sent notices to all the girls here to engage in the search at once. Many of them had been conducting individual searches since the kidnapping was reported, but today all took up the hunt under the supervision of their leaders.

The Boy Scouts, also heeding the New York American's appeal for one of the widest searches ever undertaken, are searching energetically. So throughout the entire city and its environs a house-to-house canvass was under way yesterday.

OUTSKIRTS.

In the sparsely settled sections of the Bronx and on Long Island, the boys and girls searched through woods and all secluded spots on the assumption that the child had been abandoned and left to perish.

The Salvation Army and the Catholic Sisters also continued their search through the tenement sections of the city.

Despite the utter lack of concrete clues Captain William H. Funston, in charge of the detectives, and the McKenzie family have not given up hope. Both Captain Funston and the McKenzies pin faith on the New York American's $5,000 reward and feel that it may lead to the baby's recovery.

LYNN OFFICER DID NOT STEAL SKIRT

Patrolman Orrin Gleason of Lynn was today exonerated of charges that he stole a woman's silk skirt from a Lynn laundry. His exoneration followed a hearing before police officials. Mayor McPhetres found that the patrolman was guilty of neglect of duty. He will lose two weeks' pay and his days off for six months.

Commonwealth avenue with "a girl I'm engaged to marry" when Dunsford entered the apartment and precipitated an argument that led to a fight.

The men were in a violent scuffle with the woman standing by screaming for help when Patrolmen Sullivan and Peterson happened on the scene in an automobile. They separated the men just as Hill fell unconscious. With Dunsford they took him to a nearby building where they revived him, then motored with him to the station house.

Dunsford in a report made to his superiors said he found Hill with only undershirt and police trousers on endeavoring to get into an automobile, a woman assisting him.

BATTLE IN STREET.

He said he left his horse and told Hill to get off the street as quickly as possible. Hill, he said, assaulted him. They were in the thick of battle, he said, when Sullivan and Peterson happened along.

The name of the woman has not been made public. She will probably testify, however, before a board of police captains before which Hill must stand trial some time this week.

Hill's predicament came as a surprise to the department. He has been cited several times for bravery, and was regarded a model officer.

Hill once risked his life to save a pony in a Back Bay fire. In January of this year he was commended by Commissioner Wilson for this deed.

Two months later Hill was shot twice by a Back Bay gunman whom he caught attempting to enter a house in Jersey street.

The patrolman was taken to the City Hospital with bullets in his left knee and thigh. The wound did not prove serious. The bandit escaped.

HARVARD MAN MAKES WILL, ENDS LIFE

Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Franklin H. Sargent, one of the leading figures in the study of dramatic art in this country for forty years, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head in the Hotel Witherhill here.

He was born in Boston, graduated from Harvard and was an instructor in elocution at that university.

He died fifteen minutes after his body was found in the room he had engaged only a few minutes before. He was fifty-six years old.

No explanation was left by Mr. Sargent. A note beside his body asked that his secretary, "R. B. Mandell, Carnegie building, New York city," be notified.

Mr. Sargent arrived here from Saranac Lake. Immediately after registering, Mr. Sargent sought out Victor F. Boire, Surrogate of Clinton County.

"I want to make a will," he said abruptly. The surrogate was a little surprised at the brusqueness of his visitor's manner, but did not realize that it had any significance.

In his will, Mr. Sargent left twenty-five shares of American Telephone & Telegraph Company stock and his automobile to "My housekeeper, Sadie Walker, Carnegie building, New York city." This is the only property named by Mr. Sargent. When his body was found there was only $2.53 in his pockets. He was occupying a room for which $10 a day is charged.

After leaving the surrogate's office, Mr. Sargent walked slowly toward his hotel. He stopped at a dry goods store, where he bought a strip of oil cloth three yards long. When he arrived at the hotel he went directly to his room. He laid the oil cloth on the floor, and from the bath room obtained two heavy bath towels which he wrapped about his head. He removed the telephone receiver from its hook.

were sent to investigate. In the meanwhile the safe-crackers fled over housetops, robbers being seen by the patrolmen. The woman melted away also, after declaring she was on her way to a hotel.

After the patrolmen had completed their investigation they summoned help from the station. By this time the burglars were probably in bed. However, fifteen police with revolvers and search lights made great ado in the vicinity, leaping roofs of buildings leading from Pemberton square along Tremont row to the Scollay square Olympia Theater. They searched for an hour.

In the drug store, a window of which had been jimmied, were found outfits of burglars tools and safe cracking tools, and a light overcoat. A hole had been bored through a partition into a room where narcotics are stored.

STOCK MARKETS felt better. The patient sat up and took a little nourishment on the long side. Some think there will be no coal strike. Others think this country can get along, Americans buying and selling to each other and to countries that escape the war smash.

ALSO, DON'T FORGET, when asked about general conditions, to take prohibition into account. Hundreds of millions that went into whiskey every year now go to savings banks and to legitimate merchants. Time and energy, formerly devoted to getting over the night before, now go into real work.

What the final result of prohibition will be time will tell. Whether Northern races have succeeded in spite of alcohol, or, thanks to it, we don't know.

But there's no doubt that for a while at least prohibition means marvelous prosperity. The Turks beat everybody when Mohammed took alcohol from them.

AMERICAN ARMY MEN broke the world's flying speed record—3,000 kilometres in 21 hours 11 minutes.

Germans are building flying machines for a 28-hour service between Hamburg and New York. Real flying is beginning.

THE IRISH FREE STATE wins the election, naturally. Only sixty per cent. of the inhabitants cared to vote. Apparently that "distressful country" means to try an experiment in quiet government. Any more fighting in Europe certainly would seem unnecessary.

BELGIUM COMPLAINS that she only got from Germany TWO MILLION gold marks more than England got. England spent on the war that saved Belgium from the Kaiser at least TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND MILLION more gold marks than Belgium spent. No complaint from England, so far.

LEARNED GENTLEMEN of the Bar Association want the United States Supreme Court removed from Washington, "far from the influences of Congress," which means the influence of the people that elect Congress, and appoint Supreme Court judges through their paid servant, the President.

Some citizens think the Supreme Court is quite far enough away from the influence of the people already, that it would not do any harm to bring it back a little closer.

PLACER GOLD is found in Alaska at anchorage. That is the most pleasing kind of gold for anybody—boy, girl, Chinaman or philosopher can sit with his little pan and wash out dust and nuggets. Plenty of people will go there and waste four dollars for every dollar found.

More money has been put into gold mines than has ever been taken out.

YOUNG MR. SUTPHEN inherited $100,000 and took violently to drink while the money lasted. The police, taking charge of his corpse, said they were uncertain. "It might be suicide, murder or alcoholism." A doctor, detecting a slight smell of almonds, said "cyanide of potas.-ium, suicide."

How close together are those three words, "SUICIDE, MURDER, ALCOHOLISM," as close as three others, "POVERTY, DIRT, DISEASE."

A DISTINGUISHED Senator suggests buying one of the palaces in Berlin for the United States ambassador. Palaces in all capitals for our democratic ambassadors, to be paid for by the people, are suggested seriously. There are several second-hand crowns drifting around Europe at bargain prices. Why not get one of those for each American ambassador? If you must make an ass of yourself, do it thoroughly.

BANDITS FROM BIG CITIES are pillaging farms in Germany, to get hoarded food. It will be worse in the next war. Then poison gas and explosives, dropped on cities, will send their millions of people stampeding, scattering through the country regions, to escape sure death aimed at great crowds.

Only yesterday country people crowded into cities and fortified places for protection in war. All changed now.

U. S. PRINCESS, FORMER MRS. LEEDS, DYING

More than $10,000,000 of American money will pass on with the death of the wife of Prince Christopher of Greece. Her first husband was W. B. Leeds the "Tin Plate King."

PRINCESS ANASTASIA

London Aug. 29 (AP.)—Princess Anastasia of Greece, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, who has been suffering for some time from an organic intestinal affection, was sinking rapidly this afternoon, and her doctors stated that virtually all hope had been abandoned. The last sacraments were administered by a priest of the Russian orthodox church.

London, Aug. 29 (A.P.)—Princess Anastasia, former Mrs. William B. Leeds, widow of the "tinplate king," and now the wife of Prince Christopher of Greece, had a sinking spell this morning. Her family was hastily summoned to the bedside, but the princess responded to stimulants and this afternoon was resting more easily.

Her condition, however, is so greatly impoverished that the physicians say all they can do is strive to make her as comfortable as possible. There is no hope, they assert, of overcoming the serious organic malady from which she is suffering.

London, Aug. 29.—Princess Anastasia, whose fortune is more than $10,000,000, has been in a semi-coma for several days and is unaware that she is at the point of death.

Prince Christopher, who is a brother of ex-King Constantine of Greece, the Queen Mother Olga of Greece, her son William B. Leeds and his wife, the Princess Xenia of Greece, are all at her bedside.

A cancerous condition is reported as the disease from which the Princess Anastasia is suffering. London specialists have been in constant consultation over her case, but give little hope of recovery. Earlier in the Summer she had been given warning of her condition.

Mrs. Leeds was a Cleveland, Ohio, girl, and inherited about $14,000,000 from her first husband. Her marriage to Prince Christopher with its possibility of an American woman occupying a European throne created an international sensation called the "Dollar Princess."

GERMANY'S 'BACKDOWN' A RELIEF

Britain Sees Way to Peace by Decision to End Passive Resistance

London, Aug. 29 (I.N.S.)—British officials today hailed with intense relief a definite report from Berlin that the German government has decided to give up passive resistance in the Ruhr, thus removing the chief obstacle in the way of a reparation settlement.

It is understood the German decision to cease pasive resistance was reached after a conference between Chancelor Stresemann and leaders of the Rhineland industrialists including Hugo Stinnes.

It has previously been reported that the British were advising the Germans to give up the policy of passive resistance which was the outstanding feature of the late Cuno government.

The Germans are hopeful that the French will now lift the embargo on trafic between occupied and unoccupied Germany.

Treasury experts who studied the Belgian reparations note found great variance between the communication and the proposals made by London; there was deep disappointment over the failure of Belgium to support the British suggestion of an international commission to fix Germany's capacity for payment.

Russia Backs German "Red" Uprising

Moscow, Aug. 29. (I.N.S.)—The Russian Soviet unanimously adopted a resolution today appealing to the army and workers to support a Red revolution in Germany by donations "and otherwise."

The resolution says:

"If Germany is controlled by France, it will mean a new campaign against Russia."

The document appeals to the workers in all countries throughout the world to mobilize and hamper interference with Germany's home affairs.

All the propaganda committees of the international labor unions are summoned into a special conference. The Third Internationale is appealing to the Second Internationale to join in conference not later than Sept. 10.

This is the first active step by Russians to precipitate a Red uprising in Germany.

Officials of the Third Internationale say they desired to aid German workers to take measures to prevent "the looming capitalistic war."

The apeal issued asserts that a crisis is approaching swiftly.

FIGHT 25 YEARS FOR MILLION

Walter H. Bradley of Meriden Cleared of Fraud Charges Made by Cousins

New Haven, Ct., Aug. 29.—(C. N. S.)—The famous million dollar suit brought 25 years ago by two Boston multi-millionaires against Walter Hubbard Bradley, Meriden manufacture, was ended today.

The State Supreme Court in its final decision filed today found Robert and Peter Bradley had not established fraud and conspiracy charges that these Boston business men brought against the Connecticut man.

Papers were recorded in Meriden and Milford releasing all claims and attachments on real estate and on securities owned by Walter Bradley in various parts of the country.

APPEAL AFTER APPEAL.

Justice Burpee wrote the opinion, his associates concurring.

Ever since the sale of the Bradley Salt Co. of Warsaw, N. Y. in 1898, the suit, which abounded in sensations, has been carried on with unabated fury. Losing in one court after another, the Boston men carried the suit to still others on appeals, claims of errors and similar grounds.

It appears the plant was sold by the two men for $636,000, but their Connecticut cousin, having a third interest, claimed the plant was worth $1,000,000 and received payment at that rate for his share.

FAMILY FEUD.

When he refused the demand of his two relatives for a share of the extra profits, the family feud began with the institution of the suit.

The climax of the dramatic fight came with the arrest, about four years ago, of John Tolles, secretary to Robert Bradley, on a charge of trying to bribe witnesses. In the course of time the amount in dispute has increased until today more than $1,000,000 was at stake. Property and securities in Chicago, Grand Rapids, Hartford and other cities was involved.

MRS. BARCLAY DENIES SHE IS DIVORCED

New York, Aug. 28.—"Not only is it absolutely untrue that I am divorced from Mr. Barclay, but furthermore, I have no intention of divorcing him."

Thus spoke Mrs. J. Searles Barclay, former Boston society leader and wife of J. Searles Barclay, millionaire, whose name is being linked with that of Nita Naldi, motion picture actress. Mrs. Barclay talked at her home, No. 146 East Forty-Seventh street.

She emphatically asserted that she never heard her husband's name connected with that of Miss Naldi until the newspapers brought out the story.

Mrs. Barclay said she knew Barclay had been recently on the Pacific Coast, where the reports concerning his friendship with Miss Naldi had originated. These reports said he was seen almost constantly in the actress' company.

QUIZ CONVICT IN MURDER OF GOVERNESS

Larchmont, N. Y., Aug. 29.—John O'Leary, who is held at police headquarters at Larchmont Manor awaiting word from Seattle, Wash., where he said he killed a policeman several years ago and who confessed that he is an escaped convict, was questioned today to see if he might have been implicated in the murder of Dorothy Kauffman, the governess in the home of Magruder Craighead at Scarsdale on July 5 last.

Dorothy Kauffman.

He denied that he knew anything about the murder. His fingerprints will be compared with those taken at the scene of the crime.

O'Leary said there is a reward of $500 for his capture in Seattle, and he told the police that as he had volunteered all information about himself he desired to claim the $500 himself.

O'Leary, who gave his birthplace as Nevada, was discovered in the New Haven railroad station at Larchmont at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. He had broken into the place with an axe and had smashed several trunks and torn open mailbags in his search for valuables.

'DOPE' SUSPECT BATTLES TWO U. S. AGENTS

Guy Derrelli, twenty-six years old alleged Chelsea dope pedlar, attacked Henry L. O'Malley and William E. Daley, Federal narcotic agents, when they attempted to arrest him in Scollay square, and so severely manhandled O'Malley that he was taken to the Marine Hospital for treatment.

The two agents had been trailing Derrelli, whom they suspected of peddling drugs, for several days. When they told him he was under arrest on a narcotic charge Derrelli, they say, knocked down O'Malley.

Daley, although cut and bruised about the head in the fray succeeded in subduing Derrelli, and took him to the City Hall police station. One ounce of morphine sulphate was found on him. He will be arraigned before Federal Commissioner Hayes.

The dragnet of the Boston police will bring in during the week a number of fugitives from justice who have been taken into custody in various Western and Coast cities.

Inspector Harry Pierce is returning from Ashtabula, O., with George F. Greene, who is under indictment for deserting his wife and three children.

A wife was received from Los Angeles stating Nattie Cacciola had been surrendered to Boston officers on an extradition warrant charging desertion and non-support of his wife and three children. Cacciola, who was engaged in a prosperous fruit business, made an unsuccessful fight against extradition.

The same officers will stop at San Francisco to bring back Vito Chichillo, better known as Johnny Vito, a pugilist, who was convicted of attacking a Chelsea waitress. Vito escaped from Suffolk County Courthouse while awaiting sentence, and was run down by the Pinkertons.

At Lincoln, Neb., the party will be further increased by Robert Stone, wanted here on an indictment charging forgery. He has just completed a sentence in the Nebraska State Prison.

BOY FIREBUG SEEN IN FLIGHT; IS HUNTED

A boy firebug was sought by police after a fire which swept the plant of the J. H. Foss Confectionery Company at No. 109 Elm street, Cambridge, and two adjoining buildings.

The fire was the fourth of suspicious origin in the thickly settled section within a month.

Mrs. Annie Kauffman of No. 279 Broadway, who rescued her two children from suffocation by smoke in a room in the rear of the burning buildings, told the police she saw a ten year-old boy crawl over the roof of the Foss building shortly before the fire was discovered.

William Levine, ten years old, of No. 289 Hampshire street, Cambridge, discovered the fire, which had not made much headway when the firemen arrived. Shortly afterwards a barrel of oil apparently exploded and it spread swiftly.

The storehouse of the confectionery company, a two-story wooden structure, was badly damaged. The main building of the plant and an adjoining two-story structure, occupied by Samuel Kramer, a shoemaker, were less seriously damaged. Damage was estimated at $5,000, being held down by the efficient work of the firemen.

DE PACHMANN ADMITS HE'S GREAT PLAYER

New York, Aug. 29.—Vladimir de Pashmann, seventy-five-year-old Russian pianist, who arrived on the Majestic for his second sojourn in America, stirred his opinions on things musical. For greatest living pianist he nominated Vladimir de Pachmann. Greatest living composer, Godowsky. Cities, he said, exist only in Rome, Berlin and Boston.

Vladimir de Pachmann

"I am the greatest player," he said. "Nothing could be more superb than when I play. When I hear it, I say, it is finished, a perfect thing. Thank God!"

DYNAMITE MAY COST MAN HIS EYESIGHT

Fall River, Aug. 29.—Thomas Imbriglio, No. 210 Whitefield street, is at Truesdales Hospital, and will probably lose his eyesight as the result of an explosion of dynamite while he was at work on a ledge.

ONE MAN DYING IN NEGROES' BRAWL

Jacob White, forty-nine years old, No. 10 Fabin street, South End, is in a dying condition at the City Hospital and David Gelaney, fifty-eight years old, No. 1254 Washington street, South End, is under arrest for assault with a hammer with intent to kill, following an altercation between the two men, both negroes, in White's home.

PRINCESS BLOCKS TRAFFIC; SEES COPS

Newport, R. I., Aug. 29.—Traffic police flashed on the screen of a local movie house the license number of an automobile that was parked so as to block traffic. They requested the owner to go out and move it.

Princess Miguel de Braganza, who was the beautiful Anita Stewart, laughed with thes other patrons. Later she didn't laugh. It was her license number, as she found when she had to go to headquarters for her car after the show.

CUBAN SUGAR HEADS PROTEST R. R. DEAL

Havana, Aug. 29.—A committee of the Cuban Sugar Mill Owners and Planters' Association has presented a protest to the President of the Senate against the adoption of the Tarafa railroad consolition mesure. The association alleges the proposed law would enable a privte enterprise to live complete dominion over Cuban commerce and would mean confiscation of the island's wealth which, the protest asserts, "belongs to the nation."

TELLS OF RUSSIAN GRATITUDE TO U.S.

Washington, Aug. 29.—"The story of the saving of millions of lives in Russia by American aid will be told lovingly in Russian households for generations," William N. Haskell declared in a final report, published today, on the activities of the American Relief Administration in that country.

The report, submitted to Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, and chairman of the Relief Administration, summarized the two years of relief work which the gift of $60,000,000 by the American people and Congress had made possible and asserted it had won for America a lasting inheritance in good will.

TWO CHARLESTOWN SALOONS RAIDED

The liquor squad from police headquarters raided two near beer saloons in Charlestown. The establishment of George J. Carroll, No. 23 Wopping street, Charlestown, yielded ten gallons of moonshine, a quantity of essence of gin and some coloring. At the saloon of Walter Daley, No. 287 Main street, Charlestown, four gallons of liquor were found in coffee pots.

DANA RULES COPS CAN RUN FOR OFFICE

Lawrence, Aug. 29.—The "political activity" clause in civil service law does not preclude the right of a policeman or fireman to run for political office, even though he does not get a leave of absence to conduct his campaign, is the ruling of Payson Dana, commissioner of civil service, made to Patrick F. Ryan of this city. Ryan stirred Lawrence when he tried to have several members of the fire and police departments crossed off the political slate.

MINISTER SAVES CHURCH FROM FIRE

Milford, Aug. 29.—The Rev. Louis W. West, pastor of the Baptist church, discovered a brisk fire in the cord wood in the rear of the church. He kept the flames confined to the wood and away from the church and other buildings until the arrival of the firemen.

LOVE DRIVES MOTHER TO SHOOT SON WHO LEANED TO CRIME

'HE JUST WASN'T ANY GOOD,' SHE SOBS IN HER CELL

By A. J. LORENZ,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Aug. 29.—A mother's love, so great that she would see her only son dead rather than disgraced.

It was such a love that was exemplified when Mrs. Rose Simiz shot her nineteen-year-old boy when he taunted her that he would grow old a caver of crime rather than work.

Hudie had the revolver flashed than Mrs. Simiz gathered the body in her arms, stilling the flow of blood from the wound in the throat which physicians say may prove fatal.

As she paced her lonely cell in the jail, Mrs. Simiz wept hysterically.

"I hope he does not die, but I pray God that I never see him again."

Mother love as Mrs. Simiz portrayed it in her recital of the events that led up to the shooting, is anomalous. Between hate and fleshes of anger, between rage and humiliation, Mrs. Simiz sobbed.

"I loved Dezzo so. He was my only boy. It was my ambition to raise him into a decent man. I did everything for him. I gave him everything, worked for him, feared for him. He was smart. He graduated from Tuley Technical High School—but he wasn't any good. He was just a—a bum.

"I told him he ought to work, but he laughed at me and said:

"'You're money hungry. All I hear is money, money, money. If you want money so bad, I'll be a thief or a bandit and get it for you.'

"Then I couldn't see. I couldn't think. I just picked up a revolver and shot him. There was blood on his shirt when I opened my eyes again. He was running out the back door. Pretty soon he came back and I caught him in my arms and tried to help him. Then I called the police.

Dezzo had been in trouble before. He had been arrested for stealing an automobile. There had been other arrests, but he got off lightly, on the promise that he would seek work.

In the hospital the youth repeated his determination that he would not go to work "if he had to dirty his hands."

He holds no bitterness for his mother, he said, but thinks she is unreasonable.

"I could not go looking for work," Dezzo muttered. "You see I had been out with the boys and I wanted to sleep. I'll go to work if I can get the right kind of a job—but I won't be driven to it."

Education, environment had seen Americanized Son and daughter attended high school and the girl expects to enter Chicago University soon.

"I tried to learn American ways and I wanted the children to become Americanized in every manner," said Mrs. Simiz.

"But Dezzo—he turned out to be a bum."

HOBBS HEARING RESUMED AT CONCORD, N.H.

By BERT FORD

Concord, N. H., Aug. 29.—Governor Brown and Council today resumed the hearing on the petition of the parents of Henry H. Hobbs, Haverhill business man, that he be pardoned from New Hampshire State prison where he is serving a ten to fifteen-year term for alleged attack on a fourteen-year-old high school girl of Marlboro, Mass.

His aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hobbs of No. 56 Moore street, Haverhill, and Mrs. Ethel Barnes, the girl's mother, who was housekeeper for Hobbs and engaged to marry him, insist that he is innocent. Dr. Merrill, the family physician, made an affidavit to the effect that he found no evidence of attack. Hobbs and his relatives claim that he did not receive a fair trial.

Former County Solicitor William H. Sleeper of Rockingham County, admitted to Governor Brown that no medical evidence was offered at the trial, an omission which the Governor said surprised him in such a case.

Hobbs' 75-year-old mother and his father were to testify today as will his brother, John E. Hobbs, No. 68 Lester street, Springfield.

HOLSWORTH BLAMES EXTRAVAGANCE FOR FAMILY RIFT

BABY'S LOVE HOLDS PAIR TOGETHER

Husband Says the ExCollege Beauty Misses Costly Motor Cars and Her Servants

In a house at Needham Heights live three people.

Two of them are at sword's ends. They are married. The third is their rehild. He is a handcuff which keeps together two people who seem doomed to be apart.

These are the Holsworths—Mr. and Mrs. Wayne C. Holsworth—cross sections of a phase of society peculiar to the times.

Mrs. Holsworth has brought suit, through her counsel, Attorney Roscoe Walsworth of No. 18 State street, Boston, for divorce.

Yet they continue to occupy the same home.

Charles, their two-year-old son, is the reason.

WIFE A COLLEGE BEAUTY.

Mrs. Holsworth, who in her college days at Mt. Holyoke was one of the most beautiful of New England girls, charges the conventional, the elastic and much-abused "cruel and abusive treatment."

Holsworth, well known landscape artist and tree surgeon, is said by his friends to be one of the gentlest of men.

"He selected his profession," said a friend, "because he loves flowers and trees. He loves to minister to them, to arrange them so that their beauty will be shown to the best advantage."

"I was cruel to her," said Holsworth, "if it is cruel to ask one's wife to try to live up to one's income.

"I was abusive—if it is abusive to ask my wife to do without expensive moto cars and servants."

When affairs with the Holsworths reached a crisis, Mrs. Holsworth sent Charles, their son, to the home of her mother, Mrs. A. H. Campbell, at Windsor, Vt. Holsworth promptly went to Windsor and took his child away, back to his home at Needham.

Mrs. Holsworth swore out a warrant against him.

Maurice Kennedy, police officer of Windsor, went to Needham to serve it. Mrs. Holsworth, who had left the home at Needham with her child, came back with the officer.

ROMANCE STRIKES SNAG.

An unique situation developed.

Instead of serving the warrant, the officer attempted to act as peacemaker. He appeared to convince Mrs. Holsworth that her place was at home with her child. He left the Holsworth home with high hopes that a reconciliation had been effected.

But Mrs. Holsworth remains adamant, and the courts will hear the case.

Mrs. Holsworth asks for the custody of their child.

The first real split between the couple came when Mrs. Holsworth spurned an allowance of $100 a month from her husband's income, according to Holsworth.

Accustomed to years of luxurious living in the home of her well-to-do parents, the hum-drum life of a small suburban home with the housekeeping drudgery, the exacting financial policy and the absence of servants and dearth of social activity gradually palled on the girl who had been a big favorite at college.

Can a wife—especially a college-bred wife—manage a home successfully on $100 a month.

Holsworth thinks so. But Mrs. Holsworth, who knows what money-bought frills and fancies mean, cannot go on, so her husband avers, on an allowance of $1200 a year.

And while the wolf was kept away from the Holsworth door love flew out the window.

WILL FIGHT FOR CHILD

"I bought this little home here and furnished it for my wife's comfort," said Holsworth. "It's a healthy location for our son and although its far removed from city drawing rooms and 'high society,' still it's home.

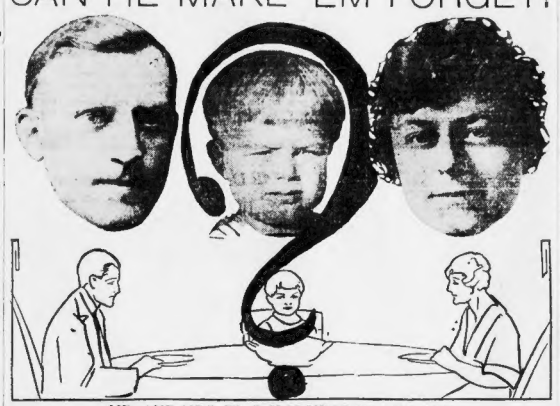
"My income at present is not that of a country gentleman. But my business is improving and in a few years we would have had all the luxuries that a middle-class young couple should expect.

"I have no fashionable motor cars nor servants. But in a home with a baby I believe a couple should keep their own shoulders to the wheel. In the long run independence is sure to come. Real happiness is in the fight for independence and what real young man and wife will not fight when there's a chubby laughing youngster to cheer them on?

"I intend to fight this case to the limit. Rest assured I have no expectation that I will lose my boy. I do not wish to embitter my wife. Outsiders have counseled her unwisely."

Holsworth and his wife are living in their Needham Heights home, occupying separate rooms, pending outcome of the divorce action. Friends of the couple are yet hopeful that little "Charley" Holsworth's influence may lead to a smoothing out of the discord which now pervades the Holsworth home.

CAN HE MAKE 'EM FORGET?



MR. AND MRS. W. C. HOLSWORTH AND SON

Although the wife has brought suit for separate maintenance, alleging continued cruelty, the couple both continue to occupy their home at Needham Heights. Baby Charles doesn't understand the coolness between his parents and seems to be trying to bring them together again.

COLD THREATENS CRANBERRY CROP

Brockton, Aug. 29.—Hurried preparations are being made by cranberry growers of the Cape Cod district for harvesting their crops. Another week as cold as the last two would mean a practical loss of the entire crop, in their opinion. With an even break from the weather man, the crop may exceed that of last year. Small berries are the rule this year.

Madrid.—King Alfonso has granted executive clemency to the leader of the recent mutiny at Melaga. The man had been sentenced to death by a military court-martial. The king's action has created a favorable impression.

4 HURT WHEN TRUCK RAMS 1-MAN CAR

Four passengers were injured and a score more were badly shaken up when a heavily loaded motor truck crashed into a one-man trolley car on Atlantic avenue near Northern avenue during the rush hour and shattered the front vestibule of the trolley car.

Motorman James Donahue of South Boston was badly cut and bruised about the face and body. He is at Haymarket Relief Hospital in a serious condition.

William H. Martin, forty-eight years old, of No. 100 State road, Beachmont, was bruised and cut about the body. Charles Weisman, twenty-eight years old, No. 73 Sumner street, Revere, and E. Warren Boothby, who was on the front platform, received minor injuries.

The truck, owned by the Gold Transportation Company, was driven by Hugh S. Paul, No. 310 North street, South Boston, and across the tracks in front of the trolley car to get clear of the congestion according to the police.

FIND WOMAN WITH DOPE IN STOCKING

Police seized 200 grains of morphine, 156 grains of which were concealed in a stocking worn by Mrs. Francis Alcard, and a hypodermic set at the Alcard home, No. 47 Telegraph street, South Boston.

Mrs. Alcard was arrested on a charge of illegal possession of narcotics and her husband, Francis, was arrested on a charge of being present where narcotic drugs were found.

The hypodermic set and four grains of the drug were first found.

"We had no warrant to search other than the house itself," Patrolman Monahan explained. "I had an idea that Mrs. Alcard had more drugs than we had been able to find. I told her she would be searched at the House of Detention. She finally reached down and withdrew two cigarette boxes containing drugs from her stocking."

GIRL CLUTCHES RESCUER; BOTH SAVED AT HULL

Hundreds at Nantasket Beach saw Life Guards Richmond Schofield and Henry Lyons swim 100 yards from shore and save a girl and man rescued from drowning.

Miss Pauline Pretzer, 26 years old, of No. 48 Brookside avenue, Jamaica Plain, was sailing with a girl companion off the Nantasket cafe, when she was carried out from the shore by the undertow.

Frank Foley, another bather, attracted by the girl's cries, swam out to her assistance. When he reached her, she secured a death grip on his neck and pulled him down with her.

By this time the couple had been carried 100 yards from the shore. Life Guards Schofield and Lyons, accompanied by witnesses, swam to the aid of the drowning persons. They first brought the girl to shore and then returned and saved Foley.

Miss Pretzer and Foley were revived on the beach by a physician secured from the Central Five Cents Savings Bank Building, Hull. They were then removed to their homes.

Scola was arrested and charged with assault with a knife. One of Brigida's lungs was punctured.

U. S. TO REFUSE WARRANTS FOR RUM PIRATES

The United States has no jurisdiction in the attack on the British schooner J. Scott Hutchinson in the high seas seventy miles off Rockport ten days ago in which the captain and cook of the British boat were recklessly injured, and Federal warrants are not likely to be issued, in the opinion of U. S. Commissioner Hayes and U. S. Special Attorney Robert O. Harris according to Special Assistant U. S. District Attorney Joseph Carroll.

Captain Arthur Moore and Cook Harry Baron of the Hutchinson refuse to prosecute the men who shot them aboard their ship. It is believed all charges against the crew attacked will be dropped unless they are indicted in Canada, and their extradition asked by the Canadian Government.

Mr. Harris and Mr. Carroll, asked by a prominent attorney to apply to Commissioner Hayes for warrants, conferred with the Commissioner for several hours without reaching a decision.

NO PIRACY CHARGE.

It is understood the charge of piracy is inapplicable because the case in question was a robbery on the high seas and the attacking party had never been defined as pirates. The attack is regarded as merely robbery. This attitude was sustained by able opinions.

U. S. District Attorney Harris, it is understood, sent a resume of the facts in the case to Washington, and asked the Attorney General for instructions, it is understood.

Mr. Carroll stated robbery is not piracy, and that a vessel is literally part of the country whose flag it flies.

OFFENSE AGAINST BRITISH.

"The United States Courts," he said, "cannot punish for offenses committed against British citizens on British vessels on the high seas."

He quoted from a decision of Chief Justice John Marshall in 1817 in a case similar to the one under consideration. The decision still stands, and so far as this Government is concerned, bars foreign rum runners at the mercies of those who may attack them on the high seas.

Mr. Carroll believes that if the British government requests through the State Department that the persons who attacked the Hutchinson be arrested and held for extradition, the arrest will be complied with.

GIRL AND HUB MAN ESCAPE AUTO DEATH

Rockland, Me., Aug. 29.—Abi Ina of No. 106 Tyler street, Boston, a lime salesman, owed for life with a Limerock railroad train at the Camden-street crossing. His car was struck amidships by the locomotive and was wrecked, but Mr. Ina escaped injury by a timely jump.

Miss Dorothy Breen, a member of the Rockland High School basketball team, was a passenger in the motor car and remained in her seat while the locomotive pushed the machine along the track for 100 feet. She, too, was uninjured; not even frightened. She said: "Mr. Ina applied the brakes when he saw the approaching train, but, finding the machine was not going to stop in time, attempted to cross the track ahead of the locomotive."

ACTRESS NEAR DEATH IN QUEER ACCIDENT

New York, Aug. 29.—On her first outing since her return from a hospital, where she had undergone a serious operation, Mrs. Esther Backer, twenty-two, an actress, narrowly missed death.

A fifteen-pound tar brush blown from the roof of the sixteen-story Hotel Empire, crashed through the roof of the limousine in which she was riding, and struck her on the breast.

Mrs. Backer was knocked unconscious by the blow. It was found she was suffering from severe lacerations of the left breast and possible internal injuries.

FULL CROP OF ONIONS, CELERY AND LETTUCE

Washington, Aug. 29.—There will be a plentiful crop of onions, celery and lettuce, according to a crop survey just completed by the Department of Agriculture. The late onion crop is placed at 12,643 bushels, which is 2 per cent. less than 1922, but 34 per cent. larger than that in 1921. About 2,152,000 crates of late celery, practically the same as last year's crop, are expected, and 5,568,000 crates of late lettuce, compared with 3,693,000 crates in 1922.

BRITISH SHIP AND 60 MEN BELIEVED LOST

Shanghai, Aug. 29. (A.P.)—Hope was abandoned today for the British steamer Mylie, five days overdue from Chinwangtao with coal. The vessel was last seen on August 16, battling with a typhoon. It is believed that all aboard perished, including the six foreign officers and fifty-four Chinese in the crew. The chief officer was John H. Hudson, who gained some prominence as an Antarctic explorer.

PRISONER ESCAPES FROM SECOND STORY

Demenic Pollicelli, nineteen years old, of No. 33 Forest avenue, Salem, serving a three months' sentence in the Salem Jail on a charge of larceny of an automobile in that city, escaped from his guard in the Salem Hospital where he was under treatment, by jumping from the second floor, and made his getaway into the woods.

MRS. I.O.U IS A. COOLIDGE

News spread that President Calvin Coolidge's sister-in-law was a passenger when the liner Lafayette docked in New York. The passenger turned out to be Mrs. Louis A. Coolidge, wife of the treasurer of the United Shoe Machinery Company, of Boston. Her husband has long been prominent in Republican circles in the Bay State, and in social circles.

MAN ACCUSED BY CHILD MUST GET NEW BAIL BOND

Trial Justice William E. Lidden in Saugus Court, hearing the case of William F. App of Medford, accused of abduction and attack on eight-year-old Grace Drew of Melrose, announced that he would hold App for the Grand Jury at the court session Monday and would demand that new surety in the sum of $7,500 be furnished for his release.

Justice Ludden declared he is not satisfied with the present bail of $7,500 furnished jointly by App's mother and mother-in-law, because investigation has disclosed that property presented by the bondsmen is not as valuable as it was represented.

A dramatic scene was enacted in the courtroom when Grace Drew, the child victim of a brutal attack in the Saugus woods July 23, when asked by the prosecuting attorney to point out the man who had attacked her, crossed the courtroom and pointed an accusing finger at App, seated in the prisoner's dock. She then regressed the room and joined her parents, who were present at the hearing.

App made a sweeping denial of all the charges against him and presented several witnesses to testify as to his whereabouts on the night of the alleged attack.

LAFFEY DENIES HE STOLE GERTIE'S LOVE

Joseph M. Laffey of Malden, husband of Gertrude Hayes, Jr., the actress, has filed an answer to the $50,000 alienation suit brought against him by David Nussbaum, the young New York cellist, in the Middlesex Superior Court, East Cambridge.

Nussbaum declares in his suit that Mr. Laffey wrongfully sought to alienate and destroy "Mrs. Gertrude Saffin Nussbaum's" affection for her husband. Laffey denies each and every allegation made by Nussbaum. A jury trial is also claimed by Laffey's attorney, Joseph Lundy.

STRIKE OF RAINCOAT WORKERS ENDED

The two weeks' strike of the Waterproof Garment Workers' Union was called off, following the signing of a new working agreement. More than 500 men and women will return to work today.

Betterments granted will be retroactive to August 13 and include a minimum wage of $25 a week for women and of $44 for men. The agreement also provides for the establishment of a board of arbitration to prevent strikes and lockouts. Piece work is eliminated.

ANNA POST BACK, BUT SILENT

Yarmouth, N. Y., Aug. 29.—George McDonald, one-armed World War veteran, who is charged by Mrs. Richard D. Post with having abducted her fourteen-year-old daughter, Anna May Post, last Thursday, was sought today.

Anna has returned in company with Mrs. James McDonald, the man's mother, but refused to say where she had been.

Mrs. McDonald denied that her son had disappeared with the girl.

WASHOUT ON N. H. HAMPERS TRAINS

Willimantic, Ct., Aug. 29.—Traffic over the Providence division of the New Haven railroad was hampered by the largest washout of tracks in the history of the division, which occurred 200 yards west of the dam of the Scotland electric power station.

Water in the power station's lake was lowered to permit repairs to be made on the dam. The railroad track at the scene of the washout is on a gravel fill with the lake on one side and a pond on the other.

Pressure of water in the pond was said to have weakened the roadbed, tearing away a section of fill in the center, 40 feet wide, 10 feet deep and 200 feet long.

A local work train with thirty men was sent to the scene and a train of 20 cars of crushed rock sent from East Hartford.

Persons on passenger trains of the division are being transferred at the scene of the washout, but freight trains are being sent by way of Putnam and Plainfield.

GOODBYE SNUFFLES! HAY FEVER BOGEY SLAIN BY HUB DOCTOR

WITH NEW YORK ASSOCIATE FINDS ABSOLUTE CURE

By GRACE DesCHAMPS.

Your hay fever can be cured.

Or rather, you need not have it at all.

This painful and annoying malady, which frequently degenerates into chronic catarrh, has passed into the limbo of conquered diseases.

Persons who have suffered through the entire pollen-shedding season, may walk through fields of blue grass and ragweed and all the other obnoxious category without a single uncomfortable reaction.

Through the efforts of Dr. Chandler J. Walker, of Boston, of the staff of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, and Dr. Robert A. Cook of New York, the pollen preventative treatment for hay fever has passed from the stage of experimentation to an established cure.

Hundreds of Boston hay-fever sufferers are daily at the hay-fever clinic of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and are gradually leaving their "snuffles" and headaches and other distressing symptoms behind.

MUST BEGIN EARLY

"The only thing about it," says Dr. Walker, "is that they don't come early enough."

Persons afflicted with this malady should begin treatment three or four months before the time at which their symptoms generally start. If treatment is begun then, the hay fever season will have no terrors for them.

To find out the particular plant pollen to which you are susceptible, a slight scratch an eighth of an inch long is made on the inner surface of the forearm. A tiny amount of pollen from the most common hay fever weed in your particular locality is moistened with a diluted alkaline solution and placed on the scratch. This is allowed to remain thirty minutes.

TWO SCRATCHES TELL TALE.

Another scratch, called a "control scratch," is also made on the arm. No pollen is placed on the second scratch. At the end of half an hour the two scratches are compared. If the pollen but one which is causing your malady, swelling and itching will surround the scratch on which the pollen serum has been placed. The "control scratch" will remain normal.

The treatment consists of weekly injections of small amounts of the pollen to which the patient is most sensitive, for a period of from fourteen to sixteen weeks. The dosage, which is injected beneath the skin of the forearm, increases each week until a general immunity has been established. The patient is then protected against hay fever for at least one year. Research is now going on with a view to lengthening the period of immunity to five years.

Sufferers who start the treatment too shortly before their annual symptoms begin to appear cannot expect an entire immunity, says Dr. Walker.

"In such cases," Dr. Walker asserts, "the results of the treatment are very much lessened. In these cases, great care must be exercised that the patient, who has already begun to suffer from his annual attack, receive too much pollen and his condition become aggravated instead of relieved.

"This pre-seasonal treatment should be finished a week or ten days before the usual time of onset of symptoms."

There are three distinct hay fever seasons, according to Dr. Walker, the first appearing around the middle of March, when the pollen from the trees is being distributed. New England sufferers are generally affected by the pollen of willow, poplar and maple trees.

The second season, starting the first of May, appears simultaneously in New England with various grasses, notably blue grass, red top and timothy.

The third season is generally aggravated by the appearance of ragweed and other growths. Each "season" lasts approximately six weeks. Many persons, says Dr. Walker, who do not react to the pollen of trees or weeds, may trace their condition to the eating of certain fruits, such as peaches, melons, green apples and sometimes green corn.

Inoculation with pollen in the treatment of hay fever occasions no danger of constitutional ill-effects, declares Dr. Walker, and no scar nor swelling remains when the treatment is ended.

ASSASSINATIONS AROUSE ITALY

Rome, Aug. 29.—The assassination of five Italian members of the Greco-Albanian Boundary Mission has created a profound impression here, and it is announced that the government has already taken the severe measures the extraordinary gravity of the situation warrants.

An official report says the five men shot to death were: General Tellini, Dr. Corti, the medical attache; Lieutenant Bonnelli, Farneti, a chauffeur, and Craveri, an interpreter.

The assassinations occurred Monday, the report asserts, as the party was motoring from Janina, Albania, to Santi Quaranta through a forest.

The French and British members of the commission, who are in the mountains on the northern frontier, have been notified of the massacre. The Albanian government has conveyed to Premier Mussolini its condolences.

Mattapoisett, Aug. 29.—Mrs Woodrow Wilson, wife of the former President, clad in a gay colored sport costume, and for the first time in many years free from all things serious, began her seven days' vacation with an early morning walk over the estate of her hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin, and their daughter, Miss Anna.

Miss Hamlin, who has just returned from England where she was presented at the Court of St. James, and her dog Moses, accompanied Mrs. Wilson on her stroll over the grounds of Large Red House on the Ned's Point road.

"I am only a private citizen," Mrs. Wilson explained. "I am here for a real vacation and a complete change. While I am here, I shall have nothing to worry about. The only communications I expect to receive will be messages and telephone calls from Mr. Wilson."

WIFE QUARRELS WITH HUSBAND; TAKES POISON

Mrs. Julia Gould, twenty-six years old, No. 913 Harrison avenue, South End, attempted suicide by swallowing two spoonfuls of a solution of arsenic following an altercation with her husband, during which she expressed her desire to die.

She was taken to the City Hospital by the police. Her condition is critical.

Mrs. Gould and her husband were seated at the supper table when the dispute began. At the height of the arguments, Mrs. Gould left the table and went to the kitchen, saying over her shoulder as she went:

"I wish I could die!"

A moment later she reentered the dining room and told her husband she had swallowed two spoonfuls of an arsenic solution.

Terror-stricken, Gould telephoned the police, and tried to give first aid to his wife.

Dance Master Terms Modern Steps Mere Public Petting

New York, Aug. 29.—"Too many young people today regard a dance as the opportunity for a general roughhouse. The modern dances are nothing but public petting parties. I blame parents primarily for the state to which the dance has fallen," declared William Pitt Rivers, Brooklyn dancing master at the convention of the American Society of Teachers of Dancing at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Paying little attention to the beauty of music or to the mastery of intricate, difficult and beautiful steps, the young people of today dance without courtesy and without evidence of manners," said Rivers.

NEW HUB EXHIBIT REVEALS ANCIENT ETHIOPIA LIKED ITS BEER

ONLY ARISTOCRATS OF NILE ALLOWED WINE; ARTISTICALLY, THEY SURPASSED US

The Kings of the Nile have it "all over us."

When archaeologists dig up the remains of the Boston Elevated road and the Custom House tower 2,000 years hence, and place remnants of our civilization beside those recovered from the valley of the Nile, the comparison is going to be invidious.

Artistically, we are not "there." So say the excavators and curators of the objects of Egyptian culture, representing the most valuable collection of Egyptian art ever obtained and recently brought to Boston and uncovered at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

EXHIBIT IS PRICELESS.

Carved on the priceless blue granite of the Ethiopian kingdom, on enduring alabaster and stone chosen to withstand the decay of centuries, the unconscious artistry of the Egyptians stands out in marked contrast to even that of the Greeks and Romans. With unconscious and skin scrapers and self-service restaurants—and all due deference to the names—we are an undeveloped people, artistically.

This is the verdict of the men who have overcome the insurmountable and have brought 1,500 miles up the Nile from the Soudan, across deserts and to Boston itself, nearly 80 cases of priceless statuary, furniture, altars, coffins, jewelry and utensils, weighing thirteen tons of "Nile."

ADDS TO HUB PRESTIGE.

This collection contributes to the prestige of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts by making it the only one in the world, with the exception of the British Museum at Cairo, wherein such exhibits may be seen. In other distinctions of Egyptian art, the local museum shares its advantage with another British museum at Khartoum.

The excavations, under the direction of Dr. George A. Reisner, of Harvard University, disclose a chapter in ancient oriental history hitherto unknown to archaeologists and historians.

The objects, due from the tomb of King Aesalta, and representing the period 564 B.C., throw light on the origin of the people of Ethiopia, their life and their relation to Egyptian history. They establish the original settlers of Ethiopia as Libyan tribesmen of the western desert, who conquered much of the Nile territory, only to become subject to Egypt as an Egyptian province.

WOMEN OUTRANKED MEN.

Interesting among the features of ancient Egyptian civilization were the "equal rights" of women and the social distinction accorded them. Prohibition among the lower classes, the popularity of chess and checkers and other modern amusements, the appreciation of music and the arts, and monogamous marriage.

So extraordinary was the status of women in Egyptian society that inheritance and genealogy were reckoned by the mother. The wife occupied the position of honor in the household, although a harem of slaves was not infrequent. A daughter of a royal family might hand down her father's title to her sons.

Cases there were not drawn an Ethiopian prince frequently marrying a negress and establishing a royal line of mixed white and negro blood.

BEER WAS SUPREME.

Beer, seasoned with various plants, was the national beverage. Fine wines, made from grapes, were drunk by the upper classes, but the common people were restricted to the juices of certain fruits.

Soldiers and laborers occupied a lowly place in the social and intellectual life of the Egyptians, their unbearable duties being pointed out with contempt by the scribes or teachers, with a view to exhorting the pupil to strive for intellectual attainment. A profound respect for the writers and teachers abounded as the result of this attitude.

Proof that the Egyptians had mastered the mechanical crafts are found in the reproductions of tools carved on the monuments and in the writings. Among the tools in daily use were blow-pipes, bellows, siphons, presses, scales, levers, the saw, adze, chisel, forceps, syringe, harpoon, razors, implements of agriculture and war and tools for building, weaving, making jewelry and musical instruments.

INVENTED LANGUAGE.

Traces of Greek art have been found in the Ethiopian tombs, proving that as early as five centuries before Christ, articles of Greek manufacture found their way into the Ethiopian kingdom.

Lasting proof of the extraordinary culture of the Ethiopian people is found in the discovery of a language they invented in entirety when the mixed tongues had proved inadequate for their national use.

No effective translations of this language have yet been obtained, although Dr. Reisner is now working on an inscription found in an Ethiopian doorway which is thought to correspond to one below it, in the Egyptian language.

PAIR OF KINGS.
Carved out of priceless black granite are these figures of King Lenkamenseken, left, and King Aalanan found in the valley of the Nile by the excavation expedition under the direction of Dr. Reisner of Harvard and now at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts in Huntington avenue. On left is a figure on a horse found in one of the royal Ethiopian tombs, which shows that the Grecian style influenced their art five centuries before Christ.

HERE KING ASPALTA'S TOMB WAS FOUND

Objects found in the tomb of the Ethiopian King, who reigned along the Nile more than 500 years before Christ, and removed to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, throw an amazing light on the culture of the time.

HUB BROKER IS HELD ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

Fitchburg, Aug. 29.—James M. Glassman, stockbroker, of No. 53 State street, Boston, was arraigned in district court charged with having passed a worthless check for $369.50 on Eugene J. Murphy, a Fitchburg druggist, in a stock transaction.

The check, it is alleged, was drawn on the Somerville National Bank and was returned marked "insufficient funds." Glassman pleaded not guilty, and the case was continued by Judge Gallagher. Bail was fixed at $400.

Glassman was recently arrested in Boston on a charge of operating a bucket shop and the larceny of $7,300 from Miss M. Comstock of Hancock street, Somerville. Comstock alleged that Glassman received from him $2,500, but failed to purchase stock with it as instructed.

Wife Away, Ends Life

Haverhill, Aug. 28.—Albert C. Evans, a shoe worker, committed suicide by hanging in his home here. His body was found by his wife when she returned home. She said he had been depressed and ill for several days.

ALCOHOL DEAL BROKE HIM

By Universal Service.

Laredo, Texas, Aug. 29.—Joseph Riata, alias Joseph Marchino, arrested here as he crossed the International Bridge, today admitted he is the man wanted in Warren, Mass., for the alleged embezzlement of $212,000.

Riata, who rose from a barber to broker, declared that he "is the victim of powerful financial and banking interests in the North."

For several weeks Riata was engaged in Negro City in cornering the alcohol market, he asserts, and but for the intervention of the Mexican government, would have made when at 12:02 a. m. the ship bound for New York from Los Angeles with a cargo of 75,000 barrels of crude oil, struck a submerged rock off San Benito Island.

$1,000,000. Riata said, which swept away his fortune and his business.

FORUM TO FIGHT BROCKTON RULING

Brockton, Aug. 29.—The continued refusal of Superintendent of Schools John F. Scully and Mayor Manning to grant permission for use of public property of the city by the Brockton Open Forum, is protested by former shoe strikers and the Brockton District Shoe Workers' Association. John M. Levitt, in general charge of the secessionist organization, stated that such attorneys as Felix Frankfurter of Harvard, Frank P. Walsh and Samuel Untermeyer of New York had advised a test case.

SEATTLE GOES BACK TO 10-CENT FARE

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 29.—Seattle's municipal street car system, which lost between $8,000 and $5,000 per day while operating under a five-cent fare, earned a net profit of $13,015.22 during July, under a ten-cent, three rides for a quarter fare, according to figures submitted to the city government by the Railway Accounting Department today.

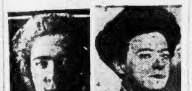
JULIA O'CONNOR MAY GO IN NEW PHONE PACT

The passing of Julia S. O'Connor as a dominant factor in the telephone operators' union of Boston was predicted today on the assumption that the peace treaty outlined at the convention in Montreal is ratified by both factions.



Julia S. O'Connor Annie E. Malley

The agreement was signed by delegates from old Local 1A and the Telephone Operators' Department, at the convention of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and provided for the amalgamation of the two groups.

The new union, taking the place of the other two, will be known as Boston Telephone Operators' Union, Local 1A, provided the supporters of Annie E. Malley accept the conditions.

FOR NEW UNION.

These, it was learned today, include the amalgamation and ormation of the new union to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, a cessation of all criticism on both sides, and the members of old Local 1A to pay four months of the dent months dues they are in arrears.

The conditions will be submitted to the girls of Local 1A by Miss Malley, and the Misses Matthews, Collins and Van Tassel at a meeting in Gilbert Hall, Tremont Temple, tomorrow night. The four delegates are on their way home from Montreal and had intended to keep the details of the agreement a secret.

When the conditions leaked out today they created much surprise among the rank anad file of the operators, and particularly among the girls of Local 1A. Sentiment in the executive committee of this organization was said to be about evenly divided, and the vote will be close, with a possibility it may be rejected.

BALLOT TO BE TAKEN.

If the agreement is accepted, it was predicted it means the elimination of Miss O'Connor, and possibly also that of Miss Malley. It was said that a "dark horse" might be named as a candidate of the new union for president.

After Local 1A has voted, a ballot will then be taken by the O'Connor group, who, it is believed, will accept the opportunity to get back into the fold.

Owing to the failure of the girls of Local 1A to pay their dues after having been ousted from the American Federation of Labor, and the heavy expenditures during the strike, their local treasuries are nearly empty. If the girls of Local 1A pay in dues for four months, there will be rejoicing.

DEMOCRATS TO GET NEGRO SUPPORT

Chicago, Aug. 29.—To break down the traditional loyalty of the negro population to the Republican party, 87 delegates of the National Negro Democratic League, in session here, voted to organize an all-Negro political association and to throw the new society's support to the Democrats.

"The Republicans have not carried out their campaign promises to the colored voter," it was declared.

FIGHTS CUTTING OF POWER OF U. S. COURT

Minneapolis, Aug. 29 (AP)—Opposition to curtailment of powers of the United States Supreme Court was expressed by John W. Davis of New York as President of the American Bar Association at the Annual Convention today.

In addition to this stand, which applies to decisions involving constitutionality of congressional enactments as well as departure from five to four majority decisions, the association president also advocated the following:

Congress should come into being immediately upon its election, and president and vice-president should be inaugurated without unnecessary lapse of time.

Bar should demand without appointment under congressional authority of an expert commission to codify the Federal statutes.

Adoption of a constitutional amendment permitting the President of the United States to veto specific items in an appropriation bill.

Ratification of treaties with foreign countries by the Senate by a majority vote, instead of the two-thirds vote now required.

Submission of constitutional amendments directly to the people of the several States or to the legislatures selected after, and not before, the amendment has been proposed.

Repeated hope expressed in association's resolution last year that "a way may be found by which the government of the United States may avail itself of the Permanent Court of International Justice."

LIQUOR GIVEN GIRL CAUSED FATAL FIGHT

Miss Hannah O'Brien, sister-in-law of Dennis J. O'Brien, who was killed, the police allege, when struck by John W. Hunt during a quarrel over a girl, came to the defense of Hunt, who is at the Charles street jail on a manslaughter charge. She declares the affair was entirely accidental. Miss Mary Crowley is said to have been the girl over whom the men clashed. Hunt told the police he had objected to the action of O'Brien in giving liquor to the girl at a picnic Sunday.

CROWLEY BODY IS RECOVERED

Hampton Beach, N. H., Aug. 29.—The body of Ambrose Crowley, twenty-three years old, of No. 153 Davis avenue, Brookline, who was drowned here recently while his fiancee, Miss Anna Meagher, of No. 54 Union street, Brighton, was saved, was recovered about 100 feet from where the drowning occurred.

Crowley's body was discovered floating near the beach by Officer Donahue of the Hampton police. Medical Examiner E. B. Eastman of Newmarket took charge of the body and notified Crowley's relatives in Brookline.

Crowley was drowned in spite of the efforts of Carl Smith, a bather, to save him. Before he had made the attempt to save Crowley, Smith had succeeded in reaching Miss Meagher and bringing her to the shore in safety.

HIRED GUNMEN KILL MINERS, IS CHARGE

Washington, Aug. 29.—Charges that union miners have been "assaulted, wounded and even killed by gunmen in the employ of non-union coal companies" particularly in the bituminous fields, were laid before the U. S. Coal Commission in a report filed today by a committee representing the United Mine Workers of America.

In order that "the thug situation may be brought squarely before the American public," the committee, Ellis Searles, John Moore and Thos. Kenney, urged that the commission in its forthcoming report on the subject of violation of civil rights in the non-union fields, "pronounce clearly the principle that every man has the right to join a labor union if he sees fit to do so, and that this right shall not be interfered with through the use of vicious, violent unlawful and murderous methods."

"The hillsides of Southern West Virginia, Utah, Alabama, Maryland, Colorado, Northeastern Kentucky and other unorganized or partly organized fields, are dotted with the graves of union miners who were shot down or beaten by these hired assassins of such coal companies," the report said.

"The sole and only offense of these unfortunate victims, was that they were union members or that they wished to become members.

"In most instances, when the United Mine Workers of America has attempted to bring to justice these desperadoes and have them punished for their crimes, the union has met with little success because of the apparent indifference of local officials, who seem to regard the taking of the life of a union miner as a legitimate pastime which may be indulged in without hindrance, by company gunmen. We are hoping that, when your report on this subject is made public, it will declare positively against a continuance of the present gunman and armed guard system in these coal mining fields."

SUITOR OF 69 MUST SHOW HE'S RICH

Marriage license tangle followed jilting of sweetheart for doctor twice her age. Now her ma insists new love prove his boasted wealth.

MRS. GERTRUDE KAY AND SON

Just as the wheel of matrimonial fortune seemed to be turning favorably for Mrs. Gertrude E. Kay, thirty-year-old widow of Newton street, Brighton, something went wrong with the works.

Mrs. Kay created quite a stir among friends and relatives when she jilted her 29-year-old fiance, Floyd E. Smith, of Medford, for Henry Hyland Burgess, a retired California physician, who is 69 years old.

Mrs. Kay had secured a marriage license from the license bureau at Boston City Hall last April to marry Smith. When a license to wed the doctor was sought she was notified that it could not be obtained until the other one had been returned and satisfactory explanations offered.

HER PARENTS BALK.

Now comes another snag. Both her mother and father are "dead set again" the wedding.

"It is bad enough that he should be years older than my daughter," said Mrs. Robert Davis, the mother, "but when he is older than I am, that is about more than I can stand."

"And conversation is about all the doctor has given my daughter so far," she continued, with much emphasis. "He has not given her an engagement ring. He has given her no present. If he is worth so much money as he tells her, I should think he would at least give her some little present to let her know his means business.

"Mind you, I am not saying that the doctor is not all right. But I like to be shown. He says he loves Gertrude. He says he was a physician in California. He says he is well known there. He says he has lots of money and will care tenderly for my daughter, but I want to be shown before I give my consent to the marriage.

INSISTS ON DOWRY.

"He ought to be ashamed of himself for wanting to marry a girl almost young enough to be his granddaughter. I wish he would pack up his bag and get back to California or wherever he comes from.

"I have told my daughter that she must not marry him until he or my husband can do to stop this marriage we shall do it. It is no match for her. She had no business giving up Floyd Smith in the first place. He was a fine man. I never knew until she introduced me to the doctor a week ago why they broke off their engagement. I expected them to marry last Spring. I know she will be sorry for it some day.

MIXUP ON LICENSE.

"Then she has her boy. Neddie is eight years old. He is the age when he will begin to get into things. The doctor is old. He will soon be crabbed and I am afraid to impose the child upon him. He says he loves the child. Will he love him later? That child must be given the right care and love. He is a wonderful boy. I would work myself to death for him."

Mrs. Kay declares she sent the old marriage license back by mail. The officials say it has not come. The wedding will not take place until it does, if the city hall license bureau has to grant the license.

MERMAID BORN; DOCTORS ARE ASTOUNDED

Camden, N. J., Aug. 29.—The body of a baby with the appearance of the fabled mermaid from the hips down is in a local undertaking establishment, where physicians and medical experts have viewed it with great curiosity.

The head of the child is normal and perfectly proportioned and so are the hands and arms. Outwardly the upper body is not unusual, but X-ray photographs taken at Cooper Hospital revealed the infant had no spine and no ribs or hip bones.

Physicians who examined the body said there was no evidence of sex. Like a mermaid there is only one lower extremity, tapering as does the tail of a fish, but without scales, to an end that has the appearance of a hand or foot. A web there connects what experts variously describe as apparently toes or little fingers.

Mrs. George W. Kephart, in whose undertaking parlor the body is, will not divulge the name of the parents. The mother is seventeen and the father also is young. The child died only a minute or so after being born. The baby was the mother's first child.

BOY SAVES AUTOISTS WHO FALL IN RIVER

Providence, R. I., Aug. 29.—Thrown into a deep mill stream when the auto in which they were riding plunged down a 20-foot embankment at Glendale, four persons, two of them elderly women, owe their lives to the heroism of a 17-year-old boy, Luther Carlton of Chepachet, who dived into the water, released one of the women from the entanglement of a broken auto top and then directed his efforts in getting all four to shore and safety. The members of the auto party were Mrs. Thomas M. Murray, Thomas Murray, her son, Miss Jennie Murray, her daughter, and Miss Annie Gibney, her cousin. All live at No. 311 High street, Woonsocket.

CHINESE BEQUEATHS COSTUME TO COLLEGE

Din Glong Wong, the Norwich Chinaman who died recently of tuberculosis, has bequeathed all of his costumes to Wesleyan, Middletown, Conn., where he was a former student, out of gratitude for kindness and interest taken in him by officials of the university. At his request, Wong was buried in the university cemetery two weeks ago.

MALDEN DENTIST IS CRUEL, WIFE SAYS

Mrs. Dorothy M. Francis of Malden has brought suit for divorce against her husband, Dr. Melville F. Francis, a Malden dentist, in the Middlesex Probate Court, East Cambridge. She charges him with cruel and abusive treatment on Feb. 15, 1919, and on July 8 of this year and many other times.

"DIAMOND QUEEN" DIES IN POVERTY

ONCE HADREFUELED $500,000 IN GEMS

Mrs. Wallace Dies Poor in Chicago; Had Given Millions to Charity

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Celia Hermione Wallace, known as the "Diamond Queen" in Chicago 25 years ago, when she shared first page honors with other celebrities, died at the age of eighty-nine years at West Haven, Ct., in obscurity and poverty.

She was the widow of John Wallace, a successful and wealthy Chicago business man, and was popularly credited with having given $2,000,000 to charities and philanthropic enterprises. Her collection of diamonds at one time was said to be worth $500,000. At one Gaiety Opera opening she created a sensation by appearing in a gown that cost $50,000 and diamonds worth $75,000, including one stone that was valued at $28,000.

After her husband's death Mrs. Wallace moved into a luxurious suite at the Auditorium Hotel, where she remained for thirteen years until after barricading herself for weeks against deputy sheriffs armed with attachment writs, she disappeared from Chicago in 1902.

She made a gift to Plymouth Church in Brooklyn of $75,000. She purchased the famous Tiffany altar at the Chicago World's Fair and presented it to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. She moved the Idaho Building from the world's Fair grounds to Lake Geneva for a summer home.

15 TIMES IN AIR

Record-Smashing Flight of Army Aviators Insures Method of Supply

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 29 (A.P.)—Beyond the statistical achievements of Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. John P. Richter, army aviators who had broken several world's records for endurance and speed when they landed after cruising 37 hours and a quarter, a new leaf flutters from the scroll in the sky.

The new chapter, while less spectacular, has implications perhaps more momentous for Captain Smith and Lieutenant Richter took on in midair fuel for their De Havilland plane no less than fifteen times. They had accomplished the feat before, but only as a daring experiment. This time they proved its practicable and comparatively easy, as schemes of the air go.

Fuel, oil, food and water were supplied to the De Havilland from another plane flying above it.

The two airmen took off at 4:06 a. m. Monday. They landed as a fog gathered, at 6:49:32 p. m. yesterday. The summary of their flight six recorded officially shows these new world records.

Duration, 37 hours, 15 minutes, 14 4-5 seconds, or 1 hour and 10 minutes longer than the record of Lieutenants Kelly and Macready.

Total distance flown, 5,360 kilometers, or 3,293.26 miles at an average speed of 88.59 miles an hour. The record of Kelly and Macready was 2,541 miles.

World speed records were broken for 2,500 to 4,000 kilometers.

The following new world speed records were established:

Four thousand kilometers, time, 35 hours, 31 minutes, 29 seconds, 88.56 miles an hour.

Five thousand kilometers, time, 35 hours, 4 minutes, 28 seconds, 88.75 miles an hour.

FIREMAN HELD ON CHARGES OF SCHOOL GIRL

John W. Cronin, of No. 57 Cambridge terrace, Cambridge, has been suspended from the Cambridge School department payroll pending a hearing on charges brought by a ten year old girl, of East Cambridge.

Cronin is a fireman at the Thorndyke school. The girl is a pupil in the same school.

The girl who went to the school with other girl chums to meet their teachers, says that Cronin came out of the building and asked her to go on an errand. When she returned, she claims, Cronin invited her into the boiler room and attacked her. She then went home and told her father what had happened.

After investigating the girl's story Cronin and the girl were brought face to face by the police and the girl identified him.

Cronin brands the charges as false. He says that he has never allowed anyone inside the building when the school was closed and that he never saw the girl at the school the day in question.

Cronin was released in bail of $1,000 for a hearing Friday.

RESUME HEARING OF ACCUSED COP

Police officials are investigating the charges made by Max Berg, manager of the Farragut inn, South Boston, against Patrolman James Roberts of the City Station, to the effect that Roberts, instead of interfering when Berg was being assaulted aided the assailant by lending him his club.

A hearing on the charges before a trial board consisting of Captain Jeremiah F. Gallivan, Perley G. Kneeland, and Daniel G. Murphy, was begun recently, and will be resumed today.

MISS BLACK IS GIVEN PURSE OF GOLD

A purse of $50 in gold was presented to Miss Margaret L. Black of Dorchester, winner of the Boston American's most charming girl tournament, at a reception in Crescent Gardens Ballroom, Revere Beach.

Miss Black leaves for a week's trip to Atlantic City next Tuesday to attend the Fall pageant there, with all expenses paid by the Boston American. Her brother, Mrs. Sarah Black of No. 197 Woodrow avenue, Dorchester, with whom she lives, will accompany her as chaperon. Her expenses, too, will be paid by this newspaper.

Among the special guests at the reception was Miss Doris Rowden George, seventeen year old Cambridge student, who was second in the American's tournament and who will go to Atlantic City as "Miss Cambridge," through special arrangement. Another guest was fifteen-year-old Phyllis Rowden George, who won the bathing beauty contest at Nantasket last Saturday and is known as "Miss Nantasket." She is a sister of Doris.

SNAPPY MUSIC.

Dancing was enjoyed from 8 to 12:45 P. M. to the snappy music of the regular Crescent Gardens twelve-piece orchestra.

An excellent entertainment was given. The entertainment was directed by Miss Helen M. Roche, organist of St. Augustine's Church, who presided at the piano.

SLAIN CROOK EXPECTED DEATH

"Still Living, Pop!" Was Kid Dropper's Daily Message to Father Until the Fatal Shot

New York, Aug. 29.—"Still living, Pop."

Until today an aged father in the Bronx had received this message each twenty-four hours from his son, Jack Kaplan, better known as New York's lower East Side as "Kid Dropper," widely-feared gangster.

But today no message was sent to the old man, who had long feared his outlaw son would some day not be "still living." The son was stopped by a bullet just after he had been freed of charges in connection with two recent killings. He had kissed his wife, Irene, goodby, had been told by a detective captain to "get out of New York and stay out," when —the Dropper dropped.

The Dropper was shot by a comparative novice at the trade of gunman. Young Louis Cohen, 22, member of the Little Augie gang, rivals of the Dropper gang, did the shooting just outside the court room. William Goldfinger, driver of the taxicab, was wounded by a wild shot.

The Dropper had a reputation equal to that of "Monk" Eastman and Jack Selig. The Dropper was tough. He was as handy with a club or his fists as he was with a pistol. Police attributed several murders in the past few weeks to members of his gang.

Freight Hits Jitney

Gilbertville, Aug. 28.—A jitney bound from Ware to Gilbertville was hit by a Boston & Maine freight at a crossing here and the driver, Arthur Tetreault, and a passenger, Albert Beaudreault, were injured. The latter had one leg broken. The jitney was demolished.

3 THEORIES IN DEATH OF SPENDER

Sutphen Got Rid of $75,000 a Year in Broadway Life; Income Only $12,000

New York, Aug. 29.—Did John H. Sutphen as he lay smoking his pipe on a couch in his richly appointed apartment at No. 833 Central Park West, last Sunday morning, inhale deadly poison of cyanide of potassium which had been placed in the stem of his pipe by some one who sought his death?

That is one of the questions that the police will seek to answer by a thorough probe into the mysterious circumstances surrounding the death of the young man following a "wild" night of drinking among the cabarets of the flaming forties.

THREE THEORIES.

Was Sutphen's death murder through a diabolical plot—a suicide —or an accident?

Police have evidence to show that it might have been any of the three. The suicide theory is borne out by the fact that the deceased had as late as last Friday made an assignment of most of his earthly property to his business associate, Ernest A. Durkee, who has offices in the Flatiron Building.

He had also lately become entangled in financial difficulties, his friends said, and had been heard to express the belief that life seemed no longer worth living. It is estimated he had spent $75,000 annually on Broadway life.

Sutphen, who was thirty-five and separated from his wife, had been drinking heavily during the past months and had plunged so deeply into the treacherous depth of alcoholic excesses that he had been ordered by his physician to stop drinking if he expected to retain sanity and life.

ACTRESS HIS FRIEND.

Florence Gaussot, blonde, twenty-six and handsome, at one time a member of the "Look Who's Here" Company during its Broadway engagement, has been living with Sutphen at the apartment on Central Park West for more than a year. She declared that she could assign no motive for a suicide.

She was equally positive that Sutphen had no enemies who would seek his death. She believes her sweetheart died as the result of mistaking the deadly cyanide for some harmless drug or medicine, such as a headache remedy, she said.

In addition to the $750 a month apartment on Central Park West, Sutphen maintained another costly suite in the Spencer Arms, at Broadway and Sixty-ninth street.

A LAVISH SPENDER.

According to Assistant District-Attorney James Wilson, in charge of the investigation of the case, Sutphen was spending money at the rate of $75,000 a year, although his only known income was the $12,000 salary he received as secretary to George Helme, tobacconist, with offices in the Flatiron Building. Sutphen and his retinue of followers were well known along Broadway, and his lavish entertainments gave rise to reports that there had been a shortage in his accounts in the automobile accessories company in which he was interested.

The two sisters of the dead man, Mrs. J. L. Hulse, of Englishtown, N. J., and Mrs. Mabel Burtt, of Freehold, N. J., assumed charge of the funeral arrangements.

Commodore Sears and Daughters Are Popular Along North Shore

By BETTY ALDEN

YACHTSMAN, globe-trotter and thorough "good sport" is Herbert M. Sears. Besides, he's Commodore of the Eastern Yacht Club; all of them excellent reasons for adding him to our "Who's News Along the North Shore."

When Commodore Sears isn't cruising on the "Constellation," flagship of the Eastern Yacht Club, or visiting with friends, he may be paged at the Eastern Yacht Club at Marblehead Neck. In fact, since Mr. Sears sold his Pride's Crossing estate, he has been making his headquarters at the club during the Summer. His Winter residence is on Commonwealth avenue.

Needless to say, the "Constellation" is the scene of many jolly parties during the North Shore season. It was just a few weeks ago that this graceful craft was anchored once more in Marblehead waters, after leading the annual cruise of the Eastern Yacht Club.

Commodore Sears has two very popular daughters, Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Jr. (Phyllis Sears), and Mrs. Bayard Warren (Lilly Sears), both of them taking leading place in the year-round colony on the Shore. Apropos of the Bayard Warrens, only recently a tiny newcomer joined the family circle at "Barberry Hill," Pride's Crossing. So that the owner of the "Constellation" has been endowed with additional grandparent honors.

Last Winter Mr. Sears went over to England with a party which included the Bayard Tuckermans, Jr., and their young family. They took a place in the famous hunting country north of London, returning to these Shores in the Spring.

It may be of interest to know that the prominent Boston yachtsman was the first American to have charge of an American Red Cross canteen in the French front line trenches, as well as the first Bostonian to receive the croix de guerre from the French government. At one place the hut containing the canteen which Mr. Sears conducted was bombed for five successive days, at all hours of the day and night.

COM. HERBERT M. SEARS

Commodore Sears of the Eastern Yacht Club is a prominent addition to our "Who's News Along the North Shore."

SPEAKING of Bayard Tuckerman and his brother-in-law Bayard Warren, everyone along the Shore knows, of course, how interested these two men are in the breeding and racing of whippets.

Which reminds one that on Saturday of this week, the fourth annual whippet derby will be held at "Princemere," Pride's Crossing, under the auspices of the Whippet Club of America. Some of the speediest little whippets in the country will race at this event, the proceeds of which are for the benefit of Christ Episcopal Church in Wenham.

Whippet racing is fast gaining the attention of the society-sport world and the list of entries for Saturday's contest—which will start at two o'clock—are larger than for any previous meet.

THE many Boston friends of Mrs. John Nicholas Brown and her son, John Nicholas Brown, will be interested to learn that they have returned from their trip around the world. They are once more occupying "Harbour Court," their magnificent Newport estate and everyone at the fashionable resort are welcoming them home.

While young Brown was a student at Harvard—he received his sheepskin last June—his distinguished mater took a house on Commonwealth avenue in order to be near him. During their stay in the Hub, the Browns made a host of friends here.

BOSTON PRINTERS OFF FOR BUFFALO

The Boston delegates in the fourth annual convention of the International Association of Printing House Craftsmen leave tonight for Buffalo, N. Y. They are Joseph J. Dallas, Daniel T. Shea, Jeremiah P. Roche, John W. Power and Walter H. Gowey.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

WHEN the clash of warring nations sounded over all the earth, when the world cut down its rations and put brakes on joy and mirth, there were many chaps among us who declared the end was near; but today it seems they stung, for the planet still is here. When the flapper was the fashion, with her crudely painted face, some folks eyed her with compassion, feared the future of our race. Others pointed out the danger of the vampire and her bunch, hailing friends of stopping stronger to explain their dismal hunch. Jazz-time stuff, they said, was shocking; nothing good would come, they knew, from the bobbed's rolled-down stocking and her modern points of view. But the flapper type has vanished; in her place a maid sedate; pipes and slang alike are banished, by the girl who's up-to-date. And the devil isn't bragging of the headway he has won, for the old world keeps on wagging much as it has always done. Same old sun is brightly shining on earth's flower-strewn, verdant breast; same old ivy-branches twining, same old robin builds her nest. If you heed the knocker's chatter, then your chances are but small; when he tells you what's the matter, brother, don't believe it all!

MONTAGUE LOVE IS RECOVERING FROM BURNS

BEATRICE BURNHAM has been added to the cast of Herbert Rawlinson's next picture, "The Noblest Roman," which has been adapted from a magazine story by Mary Whiteside. With the engagement of Miss Burnham the cast is completed and work on the production will begin at once. This picture will be the first of Mr. Rawlinson's Autumn operations.

A CABLE from Rome carries the news that Montague Love, who was painfully burned about the head and arms while making "The Eternal City," is well along on the road to recovery. Mr. Love was so seriously injured that work on the filming was temporarily suspended. He will be able to resume his place in the cast within a few days.

Gladys Walton

GLADYS WALTON is back from a vacation in Honolulu and is already busy with Frank Adams' story, "The Near Lady." Miss Walton's absence from screen land activities was her first in several years. In "The Near Lady" she will have the leading role. Kate Price is also in the picture and Herbert Blanche is directing.

DISABLED VETERANS TO HAVE PICNIC

The hospital picnic of the disabled veterans of Wood Roxbury, when fifty of the "boys" will be taken to Allerton, is booked for September 5. They will be entertained at the Summer home of Mrs. Richard D. Coe.

Former Mayor Fitzgerald will sing "Sweet Adeline," Mayor Curley will speak, and Mrs. Arthur J. Kelly, chairman of the hospitality committee of the Army and Navy Club, will give a special entertainment.

With one exception, the office of secretary, the ticket urged on the convention by Richard Dwyer of South Boston was victorious in the battle of ballots.

CORRECT WAY TO BEHAVE IN SOCIETY

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am a Protestant and I am going to marry a young man who is a Roman Catholic. The wedding is to take place in the priest's house. In sending out the announcements is it proper to send any to the groom's relatives and friends?

A BRIDE-TO-BE.

PLEASE, dear bride-to-be, begin to do all the thoughtful and considerate acts that will smooth the path for your married life. Variations in forms of religion need make no difference—the essential thing is to have some religion. Therefore do not begin your matrimonial voyage by throwing into the machinery the wrench of religious differences.

By all means send announcements to the groom's relatives and friends. Ask your fiance to prepare a list of the names and addresses of the relatives and friends to whom he wishes announcements sent, and be more punctilious about the sending of this list. If you think it would be of service to him ask to help him with the list.

If possible, address the announcements yourself, so that no mistake can possibly creep in and cause an awkward situation later. Sending these announcements indicates that you have good taste and a perception of courteous and correct manners. Cast out of your mind at once any possibility of your making a decision. Create you own religious "harmony" and you will find that people with whom you come into contact will respect and respond to your spiritual graciousness.

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

Is it proper after receiving a wedding invitation to write the bride if you cannot attend or would a gift with a card answer same? The wedding is a home affair. VIRGINIA.

IF your invitation is to the reception after the ceremony or to the wedding breakfast, and the invitation is a formal, engraved one, your answer also should be formal and should be written in the third person and carefully spaced on the first page of a sheet of stationery. It should be spaced and worded as follows:

Miss Virginia Lee
regrets she is unable to accept
Mr. and Mrs. (Her Parents')
kind invitation for
Wednesday, the tenth of August.

If the invitation is an informal one you should answer it by an informal note.

If you will write me again and tell me what kind of an invitation you received, I can be more definite in answering your question.

"PROSPECT" IS NEW PHONE EXCHANGE

Owing to the increase in the number of telephone users in Somerville a second telephone exchange is to be opened, to be known as "Prospect" in the addition recently completed to the Telephone Building at No. 2 Bradley street.

The name "Prospect" was chosen because of the ease and distinctness with which the word can be pronounced over the phone, and the ease with which it can be spelled.

Year's Best Selling Novel Reveals Mysterious Return of Youth and Beauty to Old Woman

START THIS BEST-SELLER HERE TODAY

A young and beautiful woman creates a sensation at a first night in New York by rising in her seat at the theatre and coolly surveying the audience through her glasses, after the European fashion. Clavering and his friend, Dunwiddie, are immediately interested, and the latter receives a shock, declaring that she is the image of a former society belle, Mary Ogden, though much younger than she should be at that time. He thinks she may be a daughter. Clavering follows Mary home from the theatre and aids her to get into the house as she has lost her key. She invites him in and tells him she is Countess Josef Zattiany. He nearly guesses her secret. He asks her to marry him. He takes her to a gay studio party, after which she invites him home to hear her story of renewed youth. He is stunned by the revelation.

The condition of the water in Boston Harbor during the month of September does not change materially from the middle of August. It is not until the latter part of September that the thermometer starts on its downward trend. Many swimmers fear the cold water, and for that reason steer shy of a distance swim during September.

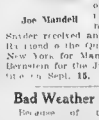
JOE MANDELL TO BOX COWETTE



Joe Mandell

Considerable interest is being manifested over the outcome of the match between Joe Mandell and Buck Cowette at Mason rink, N. H., on Friday night. These boys are picked to clash in the feature bout of ten rounds. This is a sterling attraction and a match that will be enjoyed. Mandell is keen to get a decision over Cowette. Joe Brown is manager for Mandell, Soldier Snider received an offer from Lew Richmond of the Queensboro Club of New York for Mandell to box Jack Bernstein for the Junior lightweight title on Sept. 15.

MONUMENT ERECTED ON WADDELLS GRAVE

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 28.—A monument of gray granite appropriately in color and standing more than six feet high was erected yesterday over the grave of George Edward (Rube) Waddell, famous baseball pitcher who died here in 1914.

The monument was put up by the National and Texas baseball associations and friends. Over the grave of Waddell, who was one of baseball's most colorful characters, a faded wooden slab on which the epitaph had virtually erased the name.

The Fold Is Woven In—Why?

The fold in the ordinary collar, ironed, creases anew every time. That means unevenness, imperfect fit. In the VAN HEUSEN the fold is woven permanently. It need never be ironed in. This saves the VAN HEUSEN, laundered flat, the wear from constant ironing. It also gives a trim fit which makes it smarter looking than any other collar.

COACH FISHER OUTLINES PLANS FOR HARVARD FOOTBALL

GOOD YEAR FOR UNKNOWNS

By NICK FLATLEY

COACH BOB FISHER

The young idea doesn't start to study for almost a month yet, but Bob Fisher, of the Harvard football team, is worrying assiduously, however that is, about the three Rs, and languages, and math, and everything.

Some of the athletes that the Crimson mentor needs on his next gridiron squad are conditioned. And they will have to get in mental as well as physical condition before they can help to beat Yale again.

Usually a few athletes more or less don't make any difference across the Charles, but this year it's different. Big Robert needs some stars for his eleven, and he'll have to manufacture them.

It looks," he explains, "as if we'd have a very fine line, but the backfield is doubtful."

Which means that the parade of Crimson backfield stars has passed on. New ones must be developed to replace the old. And that's quite a proposition, as any football coach will tell you.

Harvard will have last year's great forward defence and offence practically intact. But the backfield regulars have crashed into the line of life, as you might say, and they must be replaced.

"One star in the backfield," Coach Fisher declares, "will save any tough situation. The other players know where to look when things get away from them a bit. When everybody's in the air, though, disaster usually arrives."

This sounds like the usual early Fall stuff, but the director hasn't that idea at all. He has contracted the regular Harvard habit of picking heroes out of a hat, and undoubtedly feels that by the time November rolls along, all will be well at the Stadium. But he'd be a lot easier in mind if an Eddie Mahan or a Tacks Hardwick was somewhere in the offing.

Jack Hammond, who blazed forth as a fine back late last Fall, would be the type to build around, undoubtedly. But Jack has a couple of conditions hanging over him. He's a bright chap, and probably will pass them easily enough.

But it isn't a certainty, and he may not be able to crawl from under the shadow until the season is well along.

That's another of Coach Rob's troubles—the academic rules and regulations at Harvard.

Nothing will be rushed or pushed ahead. If a hero has to pass an exam to indulge in athletics, he has to wait his regular turn.

It would be just as easy to push back the tides as it would be to move the deans to relent and let a young man go through early for the sake of athletic Alma Mater.

Studies Come First at Harvard

The stars and regulars can shoot things ahead at other colleges, but not over the river in Cambridge. It isn't being done, though for the life of us we can't see where the harm would be. However, that's strictly up to the deans.

The Harvard curriculum is no cinch these days. A youth has to bone and plug to make the grade. The athlete has to do it as well as the grind. The old days when the soft courses could be picked have gone forever.

Any boy, who can keep up in his studies and give enough time to one major branch of sport is a mighty bright citizen, according to the coach.

A chap, like George Owen, who goes in for all sports and still keeps his scholastic nose above water is nothing less than a wonder.

Herein rests the trouble with young Hammond. He played hockey and baseball, as well as football, and let a few things slide. In his regular courses he was at the front, but in a few of the extras that have to be assimilated, he was careless.

But the system has its rewards as well as drawbacks.

"I really believe," says the coach again, "that having to study and keep up in marks gives us a slight edge in mentality. We have smarter teams than the other fellows.

"A boy who rates a good student now just has to be brainy. He learns to think fast and properly. And he gets the habit of remembering what he's taught."

Crimson Teams the Brainiest

There's no doubt at all, as you football fans know, that some of Harvard's greatest victories in the past few years have been due solely to outthinking the other fellow.

Life for the coach of a Big Three college is pretty tough nowadays, anyhow. According to the agreement, no practice can start before college opens.

So the Crimson pigskin chasers will not be called out until September 17. Most of the colleges get down to business right after Labor Day.

This makes the early coaching a rush proposition, undoubtedly causes some mistakes in the selection of players, and puts a mighty sturdy proposition up to the team in its early games.

Harvard plays Holy Cross early in October, and the boys from Worcester, who have almost taken a victory out of the Stadium twice, will be severely tested ahead of Harvard in the matter of practice.

"We are strong for that Holy Cross game," states Fisher. "The team from Worcester always plays clean, hard football. They give us a battle early that shows the players what they are up against.

"We have to rush things to get ready, but that's just the luck of it. The Worcester players have always shown themselves to be perfect gentlemen—hard and fast, but always clean. And they certainly do play football."

New Material in Demand

Though it's early yet to get down to plays and players and things like that, there will be several surprising changes in that Harvard team.

Percy Jenkins, a mighty fine end, will be brought into the backfield. He has the makings of a great ball carrier and he will be needed.

A couple of varsity quarterbacks, Lee and Spalding, will be on the job, but they're likely to have lots of competition from McClone, the Exeter hero and former schoolboy star, who piloted the freshmen last Fall.

This young man is apparently one of those super athletes, and will get a lot of attention from the swarm of coaches.

All new material is fact, will get a very keen looking over. It looks like a good year for unknowns at Harvard.

GENARO WINNER OVER WOLGAST ON POINTS

By JACK CONWAY

Frank's Genaro, world's greatest flyweight boxer, conquered Bobby Wolgast, Philadelphia bantam weight, in their ten round bout at the Commercial A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building.

The 110-pound Italian ring marvel will do his mates in the illustrious Pan ring villa any time the colorful Filipino cares to risk his world's flyweight title in a decision bout.

Genaro asked Wolgast as hard as the oval barons do the dear old public.

Wolgast, a very good club fighter, kept ripping and tearing Genaro, but failed to bump against left hooks and jabs and right hand smashes which scored to the head and body.

Genaro, as cool as one of those Arctic icebergs the authors of wordy of adventure like to write about, never made a false move.

His walloped the Quaker City fourth when and about where he pleased. The little Italian stepped in and out without being grazed a great deal by the goddesses put here which Wolgast kept shooting through the ropes.

The bout proved a perfect victory for the dope. This writer told the fans that Genaro's amazing boxing class and ring generalship would enable him to outpoint Wolgast whom we termed a pleasing "club fighter."

• • •

Genaro battled as we expected he would, while Wolgast came up to expectations. He proved he can take a punch and will keep going forward. It is easy to see how he [illegible] Philadelphian's [illegible] keeper of the [illegible]

RESULT WAS DECIDED JOLT TO "IN BAG" BOYS.

The result was a decided jolt to the "in the bag" boys. There was a rumor before the tussle started that the tussle was "in" for Wolgast. This proved the bunk and was apparently merely the bait of some of the gamblers to see their little betting interest in the contest. Since then nothing has been in the air against Genaro. It has been a case of naming the selections of ring contests, we have announced in virtually forcing the bookmakers out of business. It is almost impossible to get the fans to bet against our selection. So now and then stories of heavy betting "on the bag" are circulated in an effort to get some betters with crooked hearts and minds to separate them from their money.

GENARO HAD EVERY ROUND BUT THE SIXTH.

But back to the Genaro-Wolgast bout. Genaro had every round but the sixth, which was even.

Although defeated, Wolgast won a block of fans by his fine showing in the [illegible] and made a bid to top an all-star show if pitted against some rough tough youth.

Wolgast was advised to take off three pounds on the day of the bout in order to get within striking distance of Genaro's weight. As it was probably he had about eight pounds on Genaro.

MICKEY LANDERS BEATS CORBETT IN SEMI-FINAL

Mickey Landers, former amateur champion, won over Willie Corbett, of Harvard, in the semi-final of ten rounds. It was a slow, uninteresting contest. Landers had the margin all the way.

Eddie Williams, of East Boston, won over Freddy Williams, of Dorchester, in eight sessions. He scored a knockdown in the sixth frame. It was a close fight. The knockdown gave the decision to Eddie Williams. In the other two contests which would have been a draw in the old days.

Jack Dillon, of Woburn, won a close decision over Bob Gordon, of Charlestown, in another eight round mill.

JIMMY WALSH AS REFEREE HANDLED AFFAIRS WELL.

Jimmy Walsh refereed the Genaro-Wolgast bout and, as usual, handled affairs well.

Kid Goodman was the third man in the ring in the other bouts.

• • •

Judges McDermott and Glacken called all the bouts without a miss.

More than 7,000 fans attended the show.

That's what made Colonel Bob McKirdy smile.

Red Chapman and Andy Chaney will clash at the next show of the Commercial Club which will be staged at Mechanics Building on September 13.

BABE HITS HOMER INTO TORONTO BAY

Toronto, Aug. 29.—Babe Ruth amazed the ball over the right centre fence into Toronto Bay for a home run at his first time at bat in an exhibition game between the Yankees and Toronto. It was one of the longest ever made at the Toronto ball grounds. Davis pitched for Toronto. In the following three times at bat Babe walked once, was struck out by Summers and reached first on a fielder's choice. Toronto won, 8 to 3.

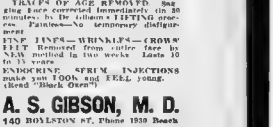
What Would You Do?



If your premises were overrun with bed bugs, cockroaches, rats, mice and other household pests, what would you do? Would you sit idly by and let them stay with the place, or would you try and find some way to get rid of them, but right away with the least possible delay? That's what it is necessary for men to do nowadays if they are really serious about getting them to get rid of them. Why not do so many problems of this kind, it is a very simple matter for us to get rid of the worst infested buildings or dwellings. Our methods are quick and sure and we have never had dissatisfied customers by the use of our methods. In all our work we use "Martin's Process" of fumigation and it is easy to handle and always brings the best results. There is no other process of fumigation known for nearly so many years. They have been used by all civilized countries in New England for over 40 years and in 20 years in all parts of the world. Infested buildings are always fumigated in Winter.

Daily Comic Section a Notable Undertaking

The circulation manager of the Boston American writes us a letter, part of which is as follows:

As part of the Boston Daily American each day, our readers find a four page colored comic and magazine section. Boston American readers for the first time in the history of American journalism are witnessing a revision in the entire American press. A quarter of a century ago, when colored comics first appeared, they were considered freakish when accompanying a Sunday newspaper.

Upon careful survey by the Boston American of Sunday circulation they find that, in 95 per cent of the homes in which Sunday papers are received, colored comics are given first preference in the reading by an average of three out of five in a family.

It is no small undertaking for the Boston American to supply each day in the week a section which the Sunday newspapers supply but once a week at a much less cost. This is done for the Boston American readers by the largest circulated afternoon newspaper in New England

We have received hundreds of letters complimenting us on this plan of colored comics daily, and the demand has been so great for our newspaper since the comic section appeared that it has been almost impossible for the circulation department of this newspaper to supply sufficient number of papers to meet demand

The cost to the Boston American to add this extra department to this newspaper is as much as the cost to an ordinary newspaper twenty years ago to publish its entire newspaper. Expense is not considered by this newspaper. Cost is not considered when we feel that we can encourage our readers to forget the serious side of life for ten or fifteen minutes daily to go into and study the funny side of life

Times change conditions in life change; therefore, it is necessary, in our opinion, for a live up to date newspaper to change and meet the change in the tide at the proper time.

Pass the word along to your friends. Not only the children enjoy the comics—the grown ups enjoy the comics as thoroughly as the child.

The artists of today have changed their tactics in preparing comics. Comics today are not prepared entirely for the children, but for the adults as well as the young.

Pay no more than the regular price of the Boston American—3 cents a copy.

Mr. Lunn asks us to pass the word along about the colored comic and magazine section to our friends. We know of no better way to do it than to publish a part of his letter in this column; for if we have friends anywhere, it ought to be in this column.

Teachers First

Then Boy Scouts and Others

Mr. Gasteiger, vice-president of the Pittsburgh Lumber Company, suggests that the navy might allow Boy Scouts to use transports and other ships to visit foreign countries "at actual cost, the boys to be permitted to take trips as recommended by the scoutmasters on a basis of meritorius work."

The suggestion is interesting, although you would be told at once that the government would be competing with private enterprise, and the government is not supposed to do that.

It wouldn't be necessary, however, for the government to use transports of the navy. It has plenty of idle boats built by profiteers in wartime and now rusting away.

Some of these boats could be used for the purpose that Mr. Gasteiger suggests. Possibly they are not very fast, but there would be no hurry.

This newspaper, however, would suggest that trips to Europe "at actual cost" be planned first of all for public school teachers in their holidays. If there were any boats left over, the Boy Scouts or other school children could go.

Mr. Gasteiger will remember the ancient and very true saying that "if you want to bring information back from your travels, you must take information with you."

Travel in Europe does little good to children under fifteen years of age. They abominate the sightseeing, they are tired, a nuisance to themselves and their parents.

And every public school teacher in the United States ought to have the opportunity "at cost" or, better still, WITHOUT ANY COST, to travel abroad once every three years, going on a good American ship, taking information abroad and bringing back information for the benefit of the school children.

We are much obliged to Mr. Gasteiger for his suggestion. BUT LET THE SCHOOL TEACHERS COME FIRST.

How Cancer Grows

Why Does It Increase?

Copyright, 1923, Star Co

Toulouse and the region surrounding it offer an opportunity for useful work to French scientists.

In that region, within four years, the number of cancer cases has increased 300 per cent.

In the city of Toulouse itself there are about six times as many cancer cases as there were four years ago. There are undoubtedly there the factors that cause cancer and greatly increase the frequency of cases—all ready for scientific observation.

Such a man as Pasteur would know how to deal with such a field of research and make it useful.

The Rockefeller Institute, including in its service the greatest cancer specialist in the world, will undoubtedly pay attention to the new cancer field.

The man that solves the mystery of cancer, its cause, and finds a remedy, will not merely save untold millions of human lives. What is infinitely more important, he will save those millions from intense physical suffering, and those about them from mental suffering even greater.

ALL THE WORLD'S MAD EXCEPTING THEE AND ME

By Herbert Kaufman

CLIFFORD W. BEERS, a Yale honor student, lost his mind within a few months after graduation. Recovering from three years of insanity, he began an intensive investigation into the cause.

Partly due to his efforts, a rapidly growing interest has manifested itself in mental hygiene—a sadly belated interest, judging by Dr. William J. Mayo's statement that "nervous disorders are the cause of more human misery than tuberculosis and cancer."

Johns Hopkins University, appreciating this perhaps foremost menace to civilization, has made the distinguished Dean Welsh director of its new school of hygiene. Read what he says.

"The greatest need is for improved care and treatment of early and curable cases of mental derangement and of border-land cases which can be prevented from passing into the insane state; also for the better instruction of students and physicians in psychiatry."

Dr. Southard, of the Harvard Medical School and the Boston Psychopathic Hospital, declares that "one out of every two cases of social trouble is a psychiatric case."

The ever-complexing conveniences which order our existence—the stress and strain and heetic excitements of cities—their noises, clangors and clamors—the pollution of atmosphere with fumes, gases and soots, chemical emanations and electrical discharges—unbalanced, half-digested, super-seasoned rations—incessant vibrations, disuse of legs, general abandonment of blood-quickening, muscle-flexing exercises and pursuits—late hours, eye-strain, and the concentration of population—exact a dreadful toll from vitality and threaten to degenerate the race.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON THE SUN'S PATH

"Will you please give us an article telling why it is that although the farthest north the sun gets in Summer is to the tropic of Cancer, which is 23½ degrees north of the equator, yet we here in Philadelphia, living on the fortieth degree north, see the sun on the long June days shining on the north side of the house? W. F. B."

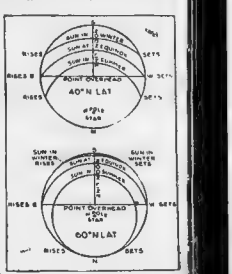
THIS is one of the beautiful geometrical relationships that astronomy reveals, and which can best be made clear with the aid of a diagrammatic picture, to which you must apply a little imagination, together with the knowledge of a few simple facts.

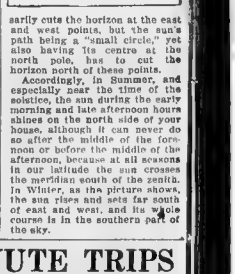
As the earth makes its yearly journey around the sun, keeping its axis of rotation always inclined at the same angle and inward the same point marked by the Pole star, it causes us to see the sun north of the equator in the Summer half of its journey and south in the Winter half. Only at the equinoxes (March 20th and September 22d) does the sun appear exactly on the equator.

Now, turn to the picture marked "40 degrees N. Lat." You are supposed to be under the point "Z" in the middle of the circle of the horizon. The east and west line runs from left to right as you face south. The three curves crossing the noon line, or meridian, show the diurnal path of the sun through the sky at different times of the year.

Take first the one-marked "Sun at equinox." That will answer for either the Spring or the Autumn equinox, when, as you see, the sun rises exactly in the east and sets exactly in the west. At noon it crosses the meridian 40 degrees south of the zenith (point overhead). Evidently at no time during its rising and setting at the equinoxes is the sun north of the east and west line; consequently it cannot then shine on the north side of your house.

But now look at the curve marked "Sun in summer." This shows its path at the Summer solstice (June 21) when it reaches its farthest northern declination, and touches the tropic of Cancer. Observe that at this time, although it still crosses the Meridian at a point south of the zenith, yet it rises far north of east and sets equally far north of west. It is compelled to do so because its daily circle in the heavens is described around the north pole, but its northern declination places it nearer that pole than the equator is; in other words, it describes a "small circle" instead of a "great circle" of the sphere. Now, the equator is a "great circle," and it necessarily cuts the horizon at the east and west points, but the sun's path being a "small circle," yet also having its centre at the north pole, has no cut the horizon north of these points.





Accordingly, in Summer, and especially near the time of the solstice, the sun during the early morning and late afternoon hours shines on the north side of your house, although it can never do so after the middle of the forenoon or before the middle of the afternoon, because at all seasons in our latitude the sun crosses the meridian south of the zenith. In Winter, as the picture shows, the sun rises and sets far south of east and west, and its whole course is in the southern part of the sky.

THREE-MINUTE TRIPS

WHERE MEN TALK TO TREES

By Temple Manning

ONE of the most beautiful islands of the Malay group is the second largest island, Sumatra.

Sumatra has had a varied history since it was discovered by European eyes. First named by the Dutch, Sumatra was for many years under the control of Great Britain and then was restored to the Holland empire, whose influence is noticed at every turn.

Sumatra is a very rich island, with great stretches of cocoanut groves and beautiful groves of spice trees. But the most important trees of all, from the viewpoint of science and our own well-being, are the camphor trees.

Particularly interesting to the visitor to Sumatra who has never seen a camphor tree and who only knows camphor in the form used in the household or under the direction of the family doctor, are these trees from which comes the camphor gum that is shipped into every part of the civilized world. And the traveler views the work of gathering the camphor, as the Sumatra natives go about it, as a most surprising thing because of a special fact. This is the reverence with which the natives go about their task.

CAMPHOR GATHERING

At no other time of the year and in no other work is there heard the language which is spoken during the camphor-gathering time. Despite the fact that the Sumatra natives follow some of the old customs of head hunting, endeavors to explain to the animals why they are about to be killed, it is only during the camphor-gathering days that the old tongue is spoken precisely as in ancient times.

Before they begin to cut the trees from which the camphor comes, the natives talk to them. They speak the old language to make the trees understand the necessity for their destruction. This special language is called the "camphor tongue."

Telephone Service

Editor Boston American

Referring to your editorial of last week regarding the telephone service we are getting now, I must personally thank you for your statement and letting the public know just what you think of the telephone company.

From my experience I find that it is almost impossible to get telephone service. Last week I checked up twenty three telephone calls with the following results: Twelve calls in various exchanges, each call averaging nine minutes holding the receiver in my hand without getting the parties; seven calls each averaging ten minutes. The operator told me there was no answer, which I found out later was not true, as the other parties were at their places ready to answer, and four calls averaging five minutes each, without getting the attention of the operator, and I had to hang up. During the telephone strike the company looked for sympathy from the public, which they got, and now we get nothing in return.

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a girl sixteen years old. My father is dead. I work, but what I make does not go far, as I have two sisters and a brother to support, and I would be very grateful to some kind person who would send me some clothes, size 18 or some clothes for my sister, size 8 to 10.

Sends Long List

Editor Helping Hand

We have a number of things that we wish to give to someone who could make use of them. In regard to A. F. D., the widow who desires reading matter, I could keep her fairly well supplied with the American, Cosmopolitan, Woman's Home, etc. We would prefer to have someone call for both the clothes and magazines, and would, of course, pay their carfares. However, if they cannot come forward their addresses to me and I will mail the things.

H. L. G.

Thank you. The list was too long to publish but we are sure the less grateful. You have been sent the address of Mrs. A. B. M., mother of a large family in need of clothes and she has been asked to call on you. You have also been sent A. F. D.'s address.

Husband Is Sick

Editor Helping Hand

I wonder if I could ask for a little help as my husband is sick all the time and isn't able to work much. I have four small children and expect another in October, and I cannot get anything ready. I am not able to earn much myself and I have a doctor's bill and some others to pay. I have four girls, seven, five, three and two and I would be very grateful for a few little things for the new one.

MRS. C. B. D.

$5 for the Fund

Editor Helping Hand:

God bless you one and all for the wonderful work you are doing. Please add one mite to the Helping Hand Fund. Will do more when I can.

F. D.

Many, many thanks. The "mite" (five dollars) has been added to the Fund. Don't know where you get the wonderful work WE are doing, when it's YOUR five dollars. Anyway we are very grateful.

Any Clothing Welcome

Editor Helping Hand

My husband is sick and out of work and must go under an operation. I have three small children, a boy six, a girl four and a girl three. They are all in great need of shoes and stockings, sweaters—in fact any clothing would be welcome. The boy wears a 9½ shoe and the girls wear size 7½.

MRS. M. C. W.

Reader Sends $2

Editor Helping Hand:

Enclosed please find two dollars, one to be given to the aged cripple, Mrs. E. I., and the other to the aged woman, Mrs. L. W. M. Will you kindly send me the address of the crippled widow, Mrs. F., who does crocheting work. Wish I could help more in your wonderful work. It is such a blessing to so many.

MISS L. T. P.

Many thanks for the dollars have been forwarded and you have been sent the addresses of Mrs. E. W. H., Mrs. L. W. M. and Mrs. F. J. You are doing a lot.

Needs School Clothes

Editor Helping Hand

I want to thank you, and have thanked the kind readers who have sent me clothes for my baby and other children. Your kind work sure makes the world brighter for lots of people. If I am not asking too much, would you send me some clothes for a boy of six, as he is going to school next month and has nothing to wear. If you have someone else before me, help them first, as I am more than thankful for the baby clothes I received.

MRS. M. H. F.

Need Clothes Badly

Editor Helping Hand:

I see the Helping Hand every night, and oh, dear, how I wish that someone would help me out by sending clothes for my boy, fourteen, who is not well. He is tall and wears size 16. And some clothes for myself. I am a widow and not very well, and really have nothing but one skirt and a waist. I am getting rather dependent over how shabby my poor boy looks and how I look myself.

MRS. H. J. C.

Shoes for School

Editor Helping Hand

I am a widow with three children, three, five and seven. My husband died three years ago and I find it very hard to feed, clothe and pay out of my twelve dollars Mother's Aid money. I wonder if any of the kind readers have shoes to fit my little ones, as two of them will soon be starting for school. The oldest is a boy, who wears size 13, and the two are size 10 and 6½. But I would not want help in any way if I was taking it from some other poor family.

MRS. F. C.

Science Now Proves that "Sunspots" Cause Our Woes

Egyptian Sun Deities, Found Painted on a Sarcophagus at Luxor.

How the World-Old Solar Superstitions About Wars, Plagues, Revolutions and Every-day Ills Have Received Astonishing Support from Modern Astronomers

THAT the spots on the sun actually do affect the nerves and destinies of human being—perhaps even causing sickness, wars, revolutions, pestilences and other catastrophes—is the latest astonishing discovery of science.

Thousands of years ago everybody believed this strange fact, if it is a fact, and because of it sun-worship was an integral part of almost every ancient religion.

Then science swept the idea away as an absurd superstition. Few people believed it any more, except astrologers, magicians and necromancers.

Now, suddenly, science comes forward with the idea that after all the ancient preachers and modern astrologers were blindly groping after a real truth.

Daniel Berthelot, world-famous French physicist, in a formal appearance before the French Academy of Science, has announced discoveries which he believes establish a direct relation between disturbances on the sun and the human nervous system.

He goes even further than the wise men of antiquity. He declares that "human beings feel immediately the effects of every solar perturbation, and not only is there an analogy between electric and nervous phenomena, but these perturbations are transmitted through space by waves akin to those of the wireless, at a speed of 186,000 miles a second."

The Abbe Moreau, a noted French astronomer, associated in experiments with Edouard Baillaud, at the Observatory of Paris, where notable observations of sunspots have been made, supports the Berthelot theory.

He says that periods of maximum solar activity have always coincided with war epochs, with the shedding of blood and revolutions. He regards it as but a step—and one which these French scientists have already taken—to the theory that human psychology depends upon, and is influenced by, solar caprices.

A parallel report, in corroboration of the Berthelot theory, says that Dr. Sardou, of Nice, and Dr. Faure, of Lamalou, working independently, discovered, after comparing notes, that the condition of a selected number of their patients suffering from chronic diseases varied according to the activity of the sun and the intensity of sunspots.

Now, what is it all about? What do they mean by saying that sunspots affect human destiny—and how?

In a few words, it is this:

The sun is an immense hot ball giving off light, heat and energy, and doing it apparently with scarcely any diminution of size. Because it doesn't shrink faster while giving off this great amount of heat, science believes that solar activity is due to something akin to radium—and you know how the tiniest piece of radium sends out rays that affect the human organism, nerves and tissue.

The Berthelot theory is that the sun is continually throwing off rays of a kind in some way akin to radium rays, which directly influence people's nerves, health and tempers, and that when the sunspots develop, these rays are thrown off in greater strength.

This directly explains the idea that sunspots may cause sickness or nervous disturbances in the individual. As for wars, revolutions, pestilences, the theory is that whole nations, whole masses of populations, unconsciously acquire a nervous and irritable tension from the increased power of these rays at certain periods, and consequently are more easily led to violence.

You will be interested to learn in detail what these disturbances on the face of the sun are like. When you look at it through evening clouds, or through a smoked glass, you see an immense, red ball. You learned in school that it is 93,000,000 miles distant, and that it measures 866,000 miles in diameter. But to the astronomer, viewing it and photographing it through huge telescopes, protected by smoked glass, the sun is more than simply a red ball. They are able to observe and learn many things about its surface.

According to Professor J. Arthur Thompson, of the University of Aberdeen, "the astronomer has divided the sun into definite concentric regions or layers. These layers envelop a nucleus, or central body, of the sun somewhat as the atmosphere envelops our earth. It is through these vapor layers that the bright, hot body of the sun is seen. Of the innermost region, the heart, or nucleus, of the sun, we know almost nothing. The central body is surrounded by a brilliantly luminous envelope, which is what we see when we look at the sun, and which the astronomer calls the photosphere.

"Above that is a second layer of glowing gases, but less hot.

"A third layer, immediately overlaying this, is known as the chromosphere. This layer, which surrounds the ball of the sun, is from 5,000 to 10,000 miles in thickness. It is a sea of red, tumultuous, surging fire. The intense, white heat of the photosphere shines through this outer red sea of flame.

"During the solar eclipse of 1919, one of the red tongues, or waves, of flame rose in less than seven hours from a height of 130,000 miles to more than 500,000 miles above the sun's surface. This immense column of red-hot gas, four or five times the thickness of the earth, was soaring upward at the rate of sixty thousand miles an hour.

"To go back to the real surface of the sun: Beneath this red sea of flame, we know it resembles a boiling ocean of white-hot metal vapors. It is on this surface that the dark areas known as sunspots appear. Some of these dark spots—they are dark only by contrast with the white-hot surface around them—are of enormous size, covering many thousands of miles. What they are, cannot positively be said. They look like great cavities in the sun's surface. Some think them gigantic whirlpools. Certainly they seem great whirling streams of glowing gases. It is already known that they are somehow connected with magnetic storms on earth."

According to Professor Berthelot, whether these sunspots are holes or whirlpools, they are outlets for an increased quantity of the peculiar rays, or emanations, which affect your nervous system, and perhaps your destiny.

Needless to say, neither the ancients nor the modern astrologers knew much about these scientific facts. Yet they have persisted in the belief that the sun did, in some peculiar way, affect human destiny. And that is why in the past the sun was worshiped under various names and guises.

The Greek Apollo was a sun god, a literal symbol for the sun, driving his chariot across the sky daily and sinking into the sea. The Egyptian Osiris was also a sun god. The fire worship of the Persians of the sect of Zoroaster was in reality worship of the sun. The Aztecs, the Druids, and many other ancient races also had sun gods of their own.

According to Frazer, of Oxford, author of "The Golden Bough," and regarded by many people as the world's greatest authority on comparative religions, all beliefs, both ancient and modern, which have as their central feature a "dying god"—that is a god who dies and is resurrected—are traceable back to what he calls the "sun myth." The sun, worshiped as a god, dies every night in the West, descends beneath the surface of the earth and in the morning comes to life again. Not only does it do this every day, but, in a sense, it also does it every year, moving lower and lower on the horizon in the Winter as if sick and dying, and then gradually climbing back into the zenith at mid-Summer.

Practically all the older forms of sun worship have long since died, but now science comes forward with these extraordinary new discoveries which seem to prove that the old superstitions were not wholly untrue, but were a sort of primitive distortion of a great scientific fact.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

EVERYBODY seems to be going to Paris for their divorces. A decree obtained in this country isn't fashionable any more.

IT'S a hobby among rich people to be separated in a foreign language.

A DIVORCE in America is just as refreshing, but it doesn't mean so much socially.

A WOMAN can take a husband to France on one boat and return on the next steamer empty-handed.

OF course the first thing you want to do when you come back is to deny that you secured a divorce. It isn't considered stylish to admit it.

YOU should sue for divorce on this side, too, and in that way you can get alimony from both continents.

SOME attorneys say that a divorce secured abroad is not legal. It may not be legal, but it's just as comfortable.

VERY few men ever go to Europe for decrees. A man usually sends his wife after it. He figures she needs the trip anyway.

BUT some women are absent-minded. One dame traveled all the way to Paris and then forgot what she had gone over there for.

SHE had to cable her husband to find out.

AFTER a woman goes to Paris and obtains a divorce she comes back and then gets made if her ex-husband isn't down to the dock to meet her.

THIS is the reason so many men subscribe to foreign papers. They like to keep posted as to whether they're still married, or have been divorced.

WHEN HASTE MEANS WASTE.

Are you too impetuous for your own good?

So anxious to do a certain thing that you do not give yourself time enough to get settled to your task and plan the best way of accomplishing it.

You want to be up and "at it." Then you get "at it" before your plan of procedure is mapped out.

You think too much time is lost in thought.

You do not realize that thought is the first essential to great results.

To be a good planner you must think things out.

The one who plans ahead saves time with less waste motion.

Look around at the men in high-salaried positions and you will find it is the man with a thoughtful mind who gets the big income, usually.

The man who can lay out the route for others to follow is most valuable.

Do you direct or do you have to be directed?

It was a puzzling day. The sun would continually disappear behind very black clouds, the next moment reappear, making everything bright.

My little brother, three years old, at that time, who had been watching this condition for some time, said to his mother:

"Mama, put a quarter in the sun, it goin' out."

One day as I got on a car, I took out of my handbag what I thought were my long silk gloves. Just at that moment I heard a titter, and gazing at my arms to see if my gloves were on correctly, I saw that I had put on a pair of silk stockings instead of the gloves which I had forgotten. Imagine my embarrassment.
